The Sincerity of their Sympathy.

When a nation, through its press and public men, volunteers advice and exhortation as to the course to be pursued in affairs of importance by another people, it would seem that the nation itself, in a similar conjunction of affairs, must have followed the course it advises. The British nation, through its organs, are evincing an interest, almost alarming, concerning the action to be taken with the malefactors, who having failed to destroy this country, find themselves amenable to the penalties of its offended laws. The English press are crying aloud for forbearance, mercy, clemency, towards these "brave but misguided foes, vanquished in honorable war!" This policy, now urged upon us, is doubtless founded upon precedents in their own history. The cases in point would, of course, be the instances of "clemency" and "mercy" exercised by them in a "rebellion" approximating in character to our own. The Irish rebellion of '98 must furnish us, if they are furnished, with precedents. The brightest, most amiable and purest character engaged in that rebellion was ROBERT EMMETT, who, a youth of twenty-three, was hanged by the British Government, in Dublin, in 1803.

ANNE DEVLIN, EMMET'S servant maid, was hung up by the neck five or six times, and suffered to fall with her whole weight upon the ground, amid the laughter and jeers of the merciful soldiery of England. But to her eternal honor be it said, they were unable to force one word from her mouth. Father PHILLIP ROACH, after surrendering on the promise of having his life spared, was dragged from his horse by the hair, and kicked through the camp and hanged. Mr. KEUGH, who was made Governor of Wexford, when in the hands of the rebels, and who saved English lives and property from the maddened people, was hanged.

BEAUCHAMP, BAGNALL, HARVEY and CORNELIUS GROGAN, were hanged and beheaded and the heads were placed on pikes over the Court-house. ESMOND KYAN was dragged from bed bleeding almost to death, from his wounds, hanged, beheaded, and then, to finish the bloody scene in a truly English manner, the gory head was used as a foot-ball. It was kicked to the house of his sister, and there flung up into the air before the window, with wild and hellish exultations.

Six priests suffered death on the scaffold; three Presbyterian ministers, nine Protestant, six Presbyterian, and eleven Catholic laymen also fell victims to England's clemency, and hundreds of the poor hunted peasantry, after being promised mercy, laid down their arms, and were butchered in cold blood.

> "He who does the Saxon trust,
> And would not be betrayed,
> Must always have his stalwart hand
> Upon his ready blade."

The old crab said, "O, my son, why do you walk in such crooked ways?" "O, my father," replied the son, "willingly will I walk straight when I first see thee do it."

AGREEABLY SURPRISED.—The Adjutant General of Michigan, in closing up the war records, has arrived at a result that agreeably surprises the people of the State. Michigan it seems has furnished 91,163 men from the beginning of the war. More patriotic by a good many thousand than they had claimed.

THE Chicago Fair closed last Saturday. The total receipts from all sources, as reported to the Treasurer, have been $284,733.47. The total revenue to the treasury of the fair when all goods are disposed of will probably amount to not less than $300,000.

NEW DAILY PAPER.—The Morning Herald is the title of a new daily paper recently commenced in Titusville, by the Messrs. Bloss, which evinces considerable enterprise and good judgment on the part of the publishers.

The Conspiracy Trial.

CLOSE OF THE TESTIMONY.

Judge Advocate Bingham's Argument.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 27.

Sanford Conover, alias Wallace, was recalled by the Government, and testified that after he left Washington, which was on the same day that he testified here, he visited Montreal, where he met Tucker, Sanders, Carroll, Pullin, West, Colt, and a number of others; they did not know at the time that he (the witness) had been before this Commission, and, therefore, received him with great cordiality. Tucker, while speaking of the trial, denounced Secretary Stanton and President Johnson as scoundrels, and Judge Holt as a bloodthirsty villain, and added that they should protect themselves, for "By the Eternal" the day of reckoning would come and a heavy account would have to be settled. Subsequently, when it became known that witness had testified here that his life was menaced and on several occasions pistols were drawn and threats made to shoot him (witness) dead if he did not swear and subscribe to an affidavit to the effect that he had not testified before the commission; and that he, Conover, represented him who had testified to a tissue of falsehoods. This the witness repeated, and was sworn to by him under duress, with pistols presented in his face.

A witness named Anzler corroborated the above testimony in part. John Coulter and W. D. Graves, from Selma, Ala., testified to the hand writing of G. W. Gale, of Cahawba, who had procured the publication of an advertisement in the Selma Dispatch advertising for one million of dollars in order to procure the death of Lincoln, Johnson and Seward. Judge Advocate General Holt said that all the Government testimony was now in.

Assistant Judge Advocate Bingham then read an elaborate argument in reply to that of Reverdy Johnson on the jurisdiction of the Court. Mr. Bingham shows that the proclamation issued by President Lincoln, authorizing the trial of insurgents, their aiders and abettors, by courts martial and military commissions, had been ratified by an act of Congress, and also that the Supreme Court had decided that the ratification by Congress was unnecessary.

MEETING OF VIRGINIA FARMERS.

PAYMENT OF FARM HANDS.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.

Lynchburg, Virginia papers contain the proceedings of a meeting of the farmers at Nelson, Va., recently. Resolutions were adopted to pay No. 1 field hands $5 per month, and No. 1 women and ploughboys $2,50 per month, and findings, lodgings, fuel and rations as heretofore; the hands to find their own clothing, and loss of time from sickness or idleness to be deducted, and the hands to be entirely subject to the orders of the employers, and in no case to hire a laborer who has to rehire himself. Laborers refusing these terms shall not loiter upon the employer's premises.

Payment shall be in money, if preferred in supplies at market rates. President's and Superintendents of public works are requested not to hire hands engaged in agriculture without written permission from the farmer in whose service he has been engaged. Parties violating these rules after subscribing to them, will be deemed guilty of perjury.

ELECTION AT NORFOLK, VIRGINIA.

By Associated Press.

FORTRESS MONROE, June 25.

The election for city officers, which took place in Norfolk yesterday, resulted in the election of Thos. C. Tabb, Mayor. Some disturbance took place in the restaurant of Mr. Cheerowath, on Main street, Norfolk, last evening, and a man named Robt. Jakeman was shot through the breast. His recovery is very doubtful. A court of inquiry was held this morning, but failed to ascertain who committed the assault.

Chas. A. Dokerty, colored, was arrested Tuesday evening, charged with having stolen $2,000 from a clerk of Mr. Moody's. He confessed the crime and was sent to Camp Hamilton to find the money. When he arrived at Mill Creek bridge he jumped overboard and was drowned.

The Last Splurge of a Rebel Sympathizer.

Mr. Roebuck, M. P., addressed a turbulent meeting of his constituents at Sheffield on the 9th inst., and made the following allusion to American affairs: I say I am as opposed to slavery as you—(hear, hear)—but there are many ways of getting rid of slavery. One is to get rid of the slave. That is being done at the present moment. They are dying by hundreds of thousands. ("Where?" and "No.") I then said and I say now, that the best way of emancipating the slaves was to do it gradually and carefully; to fit them for freedom, and by that means not to incur the horrible guilt of killing many millions of your fellow men. (Laughter.) That is all I need say about America. ("How about recognizing the South?") I am quite sure that if the South had been recognized great good would have been done. (Cheers.) In the first place, the arrogant, the overbearing, and great Republic of America would have been split in two—(cheers and a hiss)—and for the safety of Europe that is required. ("No.") You have not played out the play yet, my good fellow. (Laughter.) By and by you will see what will be the result, and I say that my policy was a wise policy. It was not accepted by the great council of the nation; and what did I do? When I found that the House of Commons was resolved not to acknowledge the South, I held my tongue about the matter. (Cheers, and a cry of "Good.") I have never mixed in a debate about America since. I felt that in that great assembly every word peals throughout the world, and that every word I utter, insignificant as I may be, will sound as a trumpet to all mankind. I did not speak; I accepted the decision of the House of Commons; I thought—I think it wrong, and I hope my country may not find that I was right. (Cheers.)

A Rebel View of Negro Suffrage.

The following, by the New York News, which is as Rebel as ever, may not be unworthy of some thought. Let not the view it takes be treated too lightly. It accords perfectly with the apprehensions of not a few earnest men, whose desire for the good of the freedmen is sincere and constant, but who are not prepared to believe that the negro, though emancipated from slavery, has likewise undergone a miraculous emancipation from the degradation and ignorance of the system. The News says:

The negro is by nature an imitative creature, and he naturally imitates those with whom he is in daily contact. What possibility is there, then, that Black Republicanism, from its far-off rostrums in the North, can sway the political action of enfranchised negroes under the very nose of their late masters? The Southern people have the sagacity to appreciate this latent source of power. They will develope it and apply it to their own uses. There is no necessity for the agitation of the subject in the North. Negro suffrage is the weapon of the South; they will bring it into the field without delay, and if its edge proves fatal to Black Republicanism, it will not be the first instance on record in which fanaticism has invited its own overthrow. President Johnson, with true Democratic instincts, foresees the future agency of negro suffrage as an element of Democratic supremacy, and understands the legitimate way of bringing it into action. In leaving the question to be decided constitutionally by the States, he secures, at the same time, the promptest and the most decisive determination of the issue.

FROM BEAVER

The Location of Beaver, Pa.—Its Educational Advantages—Examinations at the Beaver Academy.

BEAVER, Pa., June 27, 1865.

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial:

No one who has never visited this quiet old town can form any just idea of its beauty and pleasantness. It is situated upon a high, gravelly bluff, above both railroad and river, and yet easily accessible from both. It is in direct communication with all parts of the country by means of the river, and the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago, and the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroads. Its location is airy, dry and delightful. Its surroundings, wood-covered hills, quiet slopes, and rivers stretching far away in the distance, render it as beautiful as any spot to be found—even on the banks of "La Belle" river. But its chief attractions are the facilities it affords for education. Its common school, under the efficient control of Mr. Wood, aided by three competent assistants, ranks high, and deservedly so. Its academy, taught by Professors Agnew and Ganz, has no superior for training young men, either for College or for business. Its Seminary for young ladies is unsurpassed anywhere.

It is of this latter I would speak particularly. It is under the immediate supervision of Rev. R. F. Taylor, long and favorably known as a first-class educator. He seems to combine, in an eminent degree, all the qualities which so few men possess, and which fit men to be instructors of those who are to mould, and lead, and rule society. He has been teaching here for years, with unequalled success. The building originally occupied became so contracted, under the continued growth and prosperity of the school, that he was compelled to greatly enlarge his borders. In addition to this, he purchased and now occupies the large, commodious and finely-adapted building formerly occupied by Professor Mercer. He has consolidated the two schools and their corps of teachers, and thus has concentrated the educational influence. The consequence is, he is now at the head of a large and flourishing school, and one affording facilities as good and great as any other in the region. He is ably seconded in every effort to promote the interests entrusted to his care, by a large and well-appointed staff of most efficient assistants. The musical department, under the care of Professor Bassler, is especially worthy of commendation. No school in the West affords such advantages as are here possessed for cultivating and maturing musical ability.

On yesterday the examinations began, which close the present school year. In the afternoon the preparatory department was examined. The examinations were thorough, and evinced skill and attention on the part of the accomplished teacher, Miss Spencer. The exercises consisted of class recitation and review, the reading of selections and vocal music. It is not too much too say that the little folks acquitted themselves well, and did themselves and teacher credit.

This morning the exercises were continued, but in the more advanced department. The first class was in mental arithmetic, under the tuition of Miss Smith, a most accomplished and thorough mathematical teacher—indeed, few equal her in this specialty, as was evidenced by this class and an elementary algebra class, examined later in the morning. The young ladies had made commendable progress and attained good proficiency. A class in geography was examined, taught by Mrs. Kean, recently of Allegheny City, and so well known that she needs no eulogium from me. Miss Babcock put a class through in analysis. The performance of these pupils was exceedingly gratifying. I have never heard a better public recitation in that branch. These exercises were interspersed with music on the piano, in which quite a number of young ladies exhibited great skill, for pupils so young, in this difficult accomplishment. There were also a number of essays read, some of which would have done honor to older heads. "The Blessings of Laziness," by Miss Youls, of Darlington, Penn., was a most happy sarcasm. "Glimpses of the Future," by Miss Pierce evinced a fine imagination.

After a recess of an hour the exercises were resumed. The first class was in Mental Arithmetic, taught by Miss Babcock, and sustained well her reputation as a teacher, while the young ladies demonstrated the great accuracy arising from intensified thought. The next class was composed of five young ladies under the immediate care of Prof. Taylor, and showed a very accurate knowledge of the rudiments of Latin. Then came a large class in Natural Philosophy, taught by Miss Babcock, and were well posted in that delightful branch of study. A class in history closed the examinations of the day. These exercises, as those of the forenoon, were interspersed with essays and music, giving both variety and delight. In the morning, the number of visitors was quite small, but in the afternoon was both large and appreciative.

This evening, the Cantata, "The Flower Queen," is to be performed, under the guidance of Prof. Bassler. But more anon.

VISITOR.

A Southern Version of the Capture of Davis.

[From the Houston, Texas, Telegraph.]

Lieutenant Elsan, of Co. K, 24th Texas Cavalry, was with Mr. Davis when he was captured, and has kindly recounted to us the details of the affair. From his narrative we derive the following.

Mr. Davis, Judge Reagan, Colonel Lubbock, and Colonel Johnson, were en route to Texas, expecting to continue the struggle here. Mrs. Davis and family were traveling towards Florida with a view of running the blockade from the Florida coast. It was Mrs. Davis' intention to take the children to England, and then to rejoin her husband in Texas, where they hoped to protract the struggle.

Lieutenant Elsan was one of the guard of Mrs. Davis party. They were in Wilcox county, Georgia, May 7, when the President joined them. They traveled together that day. On the morning of the 8th he parted from them for Texas, on horseback. After traveling twenty miles, he learned that a band of jayhawkers had been organized to plunder the party left behind of their train. Anxiety for the safety of his family induced him to remain till they came up, which they did on the evening of the 8th.

They traveled in company on the 9th, and all camped together that night. Meanwhile the 4th Michigan cavalry had been on their track. On the night of the 9th this regiment surprised two scouts who had been left in the rear to watch for pursuit, but who had been overcome by fatigue and fallen asleep. The pursuers rode all night, and at daybreak on the morning of the 10th surprised the encampment, and captured the whole party without firing a gun.

On the surprise, Mr. Davis threw a cloak over his shoulders and started for his horse, about forty steps from his tent. As he set out Mrs. Davis threw a veil over his hat. He had got but a few steps when a cavalryman rode up, and presenting his gun to him, cried out, "I know you, you old scoundrel; I have seen you before; surrender." (It seemed that he had lived in Richmond since the war began.) As he stopped Mr. Davis, Mrs. Davis ran up to him, and, throwing her arms around his neck, begged them to spare his life. Colonel Pritchard, the commander of the pursuing cavalry, now rode up, and assured her he should not be hurt.

From this time the party were treated with marked politeness. They were taken to Macon, Mrs. Davis being allowed all her transportation except an ambulance, which was taken for some of the wounded.

Lieutenant Elsan says the entire amount of specie the party had with them was about eleven thousand dollars. Of this Mrs. Davis had two thousand dollars, her own private funds; Mr. Davis about fourteen hundred, which he carried in his holsters, and the balance belonged to Judge Reagan and the balance of the party.

The party left Macon on the evening of the 13th, under guard, for Washington City, all in good health and quite hopeful.

BOYISH WHIM AND FORTITUDE.—The New York Tribune relates as authentic, a strange story of morbid obstinacy and superhuman pluck on the part of one George Smith, a boy seven years old, living in a village on the Harlem Railroad. He refused to go to school, and declared that if his parents insisted he would would throw himself before the locomotive and receive such injuries as would compel them to keep him at home. The thought nothing of threat, but the little fellow actually did lay his left arm on the track, and the cars passed over it, severing nearly the whole of his hand from the limb.

"The engineer perceiving him then for the first time, stopped the train, when the child ran off and was found with his shattered and bleeding arm behind his back, sitting on a fence whistling 'Yankee Doodle,' and pretending nothing had happened. Before he could be taken home, George fainted from pain and loss of blood. When restored, and a physician was summoned, he refused most obstinately to take any anæsthetic agent, but told the surgeon to cut away. The scalpel was used on the mangled limb, but the little fellow never whimpered or complained. Not a nerve trembled during the operation, which must have been very painful; indeed the boy did not speak until it was over, when he remarked with great satisfaction and an air of triumph: 'Well, I am glad I did it; I can't be sent to school for a while any how.' The child acted with wonderful coolness, saying he first put his right arm on the track, but reflecting than when he grew up he would not be able to write well with the loss of that limb, he substituted the left. His parents are much distressed at the occurrence, and apprehend if he is sent to school again he will destroy himself. The boy's conduct is almost inexplicable, and his fortitude and determination extraordinary in one of his tender years.

FROM a report of the Provost Marshal General we find some facts having bearing upon the physical condition of residents of Eastern and Western States. In Maine, the number of men rejected for the army was in the ratio of a little over 451 to the thousand; the ratio in Massachusetts is 425; and generally in the Eastern States the ratio ranges between 300 and 451. But two Western States are given—Wisconsin, in which the ratio was 218, and Michigan, in which it was 278. The inference is that in case of a draft there are fewer exempts in the West than in the East; a difference which may be founded on physical disability, or a disinclination to go to the front, or both. In any case, it shows that the West is either healthier or has more patriotism than the East, and is therefore more desirable as a residence.

OIL INTELLIGENCE.

Prof. Fleury on Petroleum and its Uses—Latest Strikes in the Venango Region—Activity in the Ohio Oil Territory—Profitable Use of Bituminous Shales.

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial:

It may perhaps be interesting to many of your readers to learn to what uses, outside of the well known oil for burning in lamps, the world-famed Petroleum has been put to, and to have a condensed sketch of its properties; perhaps some new applications may be suggested by others.

Petroleum, from the Greek petros, stone, and elaion, oil, has, at the ordinary temperature, generally a specific gravity varying from 730 to 878; water being 1000. The odor, of course pleasant to those who "strike ile" or consummate a profitable contract, is to all others somewhat disagreeable. When slowly distilled at a temperature of from 150 to 212° F. it yields Naptha, or, as it is generally called, Benzine, a colorless volatile, and very inflamable liquid of about 715 specific gravity. This liquid is used—

1. For the production of light. Hydrogen, or light carburetted hydrogen gas, with or without admixture of atmospheric air, is passed through the liquid, and becoming surcharged with the Benzine, produces, when burnt, a beautiful white light, superior to the ordinary gas light. In France, England, and recently also in this country, the ordinary gas is forced through a small vessel filled with Benzine, when its light is much increased and much of the gas economized.

2. The benzine is now quite extensively used as a substitute for spirits of turpentine in the preparation of varnishes. It is an excellent solvent for India rubber and similar resins.

3. In England, France and Germany it is now extensively used to extract fatty matter from cloths, wool, &c., in the largest steam-washing establishments.

4. Benzine has in recent time been used as a substitute for bisulphide of carbon to extract oils from seeds, such as recinus and others; also for the manufacture of extracts from spices and perfumes from flowers.

5. In tanneries, benzine is used for making leather water-proof. Fatty oil, soluble in benzine, which in itself has great penetrating power, are forced through leather, whereby they become water-proof, as the oil remains in the pores and the benzine evaporates.

6. When benzine is burnt with insufficient supply of air, it forms a very fine lamp-black, from which India ink has been successfully prepared.

7. Benzine has been applied as an excellent remedy for rheumatism and frost bites; an anæsthetic, a substitute for chloroform, has also been prepared from it.

8. It is an excellent antiseptic and is now used for embalming dead bodies.

The second product of distillation, coming over between 212 and 410° F., is the well known burning oil, now so extensively used in the petroleum lamps. There are, however, other uses for this liquid.

1. It is free from sulphur, and has already found quite an extensive use in the preparation of gas for cooking-stoves, &c.

2. It has, to some extent, been introduced into the manufacture of soap.

3. Refined petroleum has been tried as an admixture to colors for paints and varnishes, as a substitute for linseed oil.

The third product, known generally as heavy oil distils, between 410 and 800° F., and consists of a mixture of various hydro carbons. It is used:

1. As a substitute for lard oil in certain lamps.

2. As an excellent lubricating matereal for machinery, wagon grease, &c.

3. At about 428° F., a peculiar substance distils over which in the cold crystalizes, and is called Napthaline, from which, by further chemical treatment, the blue color called Azurine, or Humboldt-blue, is prepared.

When the distillation is continued, still heavier brown colored hydrocarbon liquids come over, of a very offensive odor. These contain the beautiful wax-like Paraffine, which, on cooling, chrystalizes in mica-shaped scales, and are afterwards purified and made into the well-known paraffine candles. Not being affected by acids or alkalies, paraffine has found extensive use in the manufacture of packing-paper for caustic and corrosive chemicals; also for labels and lining of wooden troughs to contain acids, &c. In the manufacture of waterproof cloths and roofing paper paraffine finds quite successful use. When dissolved in oil, it gives the best lubricator known.

There is yet a black substance left in the still called pitch, which is used for roofing cement and asphaltum floors. It is a good disinfectant, and can, with the addition of some more liquid hydrocarbon, be made to protect trees from worms, and has been employed as an ingredient for ship-paint, artificial rubber, color for iron railings, machinery and fences.

There are no doubt many other applications for petroleum and its products; these, however, show in the most brilliant light the victories the science of chemistry applied to manufactures has achieved during the last few years, and should serve to encourage its study by young and old.

A. L. FLEURY.

The latest news received from the Venango county region is of a very encouraging nature. The speculators, and those of excitable disposition, are Pithole-mad, while, on the other hand, the prudent and cautious operators confine themselves to older and just as favorable localities. On Friday morning a new well of one hundred barrels capacity, was struck on the farm adjoining the Morey farm, Pithole creek. Strikes continue to be made on the Watson Flats. The Needham well was tubed on Friday last, and is reported to be now yielding sixty barrels per day with the pump. A well on the McCausland farm, near Pleasantville, not yet tubed, has already yielded several barrels of oil. A ten barrel well was tubed on Friday, in the rear of the Bush House, Titusville, which has served to encourage other operators in that vicinity.

The Kent Run Oil Company have succeeded in getting a very fine quality of lubricating oil from one of their wells in Muskingum county, Ohio, having pumped in a part of a day five gallons of oil. The Company have two other wells down, but have not succeeded in getting oil in paying quantities in either.

Mr. Lawrence Myers, of Titusville, has patented a rotary oil-car, which consists of two or more wrought-iron cylinders, with cast-iron heads, with the usual railroad axle passing through the centre of each head, and fitted with cast or wrought-iron tires. In the interior and center of each cylinder is placed a partition, the whole length and depth of the same, reserving sufficient space on each side of the axle for facilitating repairs and cleansing. The cylinders are connected with a frame of wood or iron, of sufficient strength, with platform over the same, and the usual spring bumpers. For loading the car with oil, an aperture of three inches in diameter is made in the cylinder, and fitted and secured by a screw-bung. For loading with grain, they will be fitted with a slide, opening and fastening the whole length of the cylinder. The diameter of the cylinder is five feet two inches; wheels or tires, six feet, and length six feet four inches. These dimensions, on four feet eight and a half inch gauge, will give a capacity of twenty barrels to each cylinder, or eighty barrels on eight wheels.

A Gallipolis, Ohio, correspondent speaks of active operations among oil seekers in that locality. The Wybert well has at a depth of two hundred and fifty feet struck two veins or oil crevices of heavy oil. They were thought not to be rich enough to warrant the trial of a pump. The nearest well on the Raccoon creek to this place is at Adamsville, which is being sunk by a New York Company. The log of this well to the depth of two hundred and thirty-six feet, shows as follows: 8 feet Alluvian, 5 feet soft slate rock, 3 feet slate with kidney ore, 4 feet hard limestone, 9 feet soft slate in alternate layers of blue and brown—the blue resembling fine clay; 6 feet bituminous coal, good quality; 80 feet slate, same as above the coal, 2 feet conglomerate, 50 feet white sand rock, 18 feet soft black slate, 3 feet into another coal bank, when a bit came off, and the driller came to town for repairs. At a depth of 185 feet, struck a crevice in the sand rock, which affords considerable gas, salt water and some oil.

It is stated upon indisputable authority that a company boring near Farmington, Iowa, struck oil at the depth of about one hundred feet, a few days ago. The quantity yielded by the well is small, but large enough to demonstrate the existence of the product in that locality, which is of itself a demonstration that will encourage others to quickly prove the resources of that promising region. To all who have held that petroleum is a distillation or an exudation from bituminous coal, this discovery will be gratifying, as this theory, strengthened by certain surface indications, is at the bottom of the company's operations.

Professor Andrews, in his reports to the Marietta Railroad Company, says: "That the bituminous shales contain more bitumen than the whole of the coal beds; that they are the depositaries of the Petroleum, and that by striking fissures in the stratum the oil is found in abundance." Other geological and scientific writers confirm this opinion, and state that these indurated shales contain within themselves sufficient quantities of oil to pay a heavy per cent. on a large capital invested to mine and distil them. Indeed, they are more valuable than coal. I would observe to those about to operate their shale beds, says a correspondent, to mine, not to bore them. By opening audits in the face of the shale and driving through them, they might strike the oil deposits with more certainty than by an expensive boring, and all the material mined would at once be turned to account by distilling it as soon as it is mined in a series of clay retorts. I do not suppose that the mineral at its outcrop can be as rich as where it is found free from the action of the sun's rays and the weather. It is quite possible that the yield may be greater than any stated, but if it is less than the lowest estimate, oil companies need not want for better oil wells.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON and his constitutional advisers claim that the United States Constitution does not give him the power to extend the elective franchise in the different States. A certain class of newspapers contend to the contrary, and threaten him with pains and penalties if he does not accept that document as they expound it. In other words, these worthies ask the President to violate the oath, as he understands it, which he took to support the Constitution. And these be the same organs which assailed President Lincoln, and demanded the removal of General Grant and other officers, for incompetency!—Chicago Journal.

DISASTER AT SEA!

Wreck of the "Golden Rule."

Additional Details.

Escape of both Passengers and Crew.

They are Eleven Days on a Desert Island.

The steamship "Golden Rule," belonging to the Central American Transit Company's line of California steamers via Nicaragua, left New York May 22, with five hundred and thirty-five passengers and a crew of one hundred, all told, for San Juan (Greytown). Everything proceeded favorably until the afternoon of the 29th, when the weather became very dark and squally with torrents of rain, which continued through the night. On the morning of May 30, at half past three o'clock, the ship struck on Roncador reef, in lat. 13, 32, lon. 80.01, and in 30 minutes bilged. About ten minutes before the ship struck, the reef was seen, the helm put hard a starboard, the engine stopped, and had made half a turn back when she struck.

Every exertion was made to save the ship, but she came broadside on the reef, and at the same time the engineer reported the breaking off of the main steam-pipe and the water gaining very fast. The boats were immediately lowered and brought under the lee side of the ship, the masts cut away and the ship's company were preparing to build rafts for the safety of the passengers and crew. During the day there was a high breeze from eastward, with heavy rain squalls and a very heavy swell, which broke completely over the ship. During the afternoon discovered an island to the northwest, and sent the First Assistant Engineer, Wm. Underhill, to report on the practicability of landing the passengers and stores.

On his return he reported the island to be about twelve acres in extent, destitute of vegetables, with a number of small wells upon it. Before night they succeeding in constructing rafts from the hurricane deck, and the tops and sides of the deck-houses, and embarked the women and children, and by one A. M. had safely landed two hundred and thirty by means of a small boat. In the meantime, dispatched Mr. Pendleton, the first officer, to the nearest land—Old Providence—ninety miles distant, for assistance. At daylight on the 31st, five of the boats were loaded from the rafts with passengers, sails and provisions, and sent to the island, six miles distant; the remaining boat was occupied in transporting passengers from the ship to the raft, made fast to the rocks inside of the reef, and before night every man, woman and child, except the crew, were safely landed on the island. On the night of the 31st, the ship commenced to break up, and from that time until June 5, they were entirely engaged in securing provisions, stores, baggage, mattresses, blankets, etc., necessary to sustain life on the island.

About half of the baggage and stores were saved, the latter in a very bad condition. At one o'clock P. M., June 2, dispatched the second boat in charge of the second officer, Mr. Reid, with the purser, Mr. Rogers, to Aspinwall, two hundred and fifty miles distant, for assistance. On the 5th and 6th of June, the ship became a perfect wreck, and nothing more remains of her but a part of her engine. On the 7th the Captain proceeded to the island, where he found tents erected, bedding distributed, and everything working well. Mr. Sloat, the Chief Engineer, put up a condenser, which would make seventy to eighty gallons of water per day, and was in perfect working order, in case the wells on the island had given out. On the 8th, the first officer returned with two small fishing vessels, of twenty-eight tons each. Captain Dennis had partly succeeded in making arrangements with the captains of the schooners to transport as many of the passengers as they could carry to Aspinwall, when, on the morning of the 9th Mr. Reid, the second officer, came to their rescue with two Government gunboats—the Huntsville, Commander Devins, and the State of Georgia, Commander Preble, from Aspinwall. Mr. Read having reached that place in less than three hours. The passengers and crew were distributed on board the two steamers, with bedding and provisions for the passage, and reached Aspinwall in safety on the 11th at 5 A. M. The passengers were immediately landed, and left for Panama at 9 A. M., and for California at 9:30 P. M., in the steamer America. They were ten days on the island, and, with very few exceptions, every one was well.

The thermometer ranged from 85 to 87 during the day, and there was no rain after the first night. Captain Dennis says that the only way he can account for the loss of the ship is owing to a strong northwest current. He felt perfectly confident of his position at noon, May 29, as he had good sets of observations that morning, and the course steered would have given the ship a berth of twenty-five miles from the reef.—N. Y. Tribune.

Additional Particulars.

The Panama Star has the following additional particulars:

The United States steamships Huntsville and State of Georgia returned to Aspinwall from the wreck of the steamship Golden Rule, on Sunday morning, the 11th instant, bringing down the passengers of that unfortunate vessel, who were immediately transported across the road to Panama, and embarked on board the steamship America, which sailed the same night for San Francisco. After being eleven days on the barren island of Roncador, it is astonishing to see how well and in what good spirits these passengers appeared. With the exception of one case of varioloid and some slight attacks of dysentery, there was no sickness whatever among them, and although they had little else than salt meat and sea-biscuit to eat, they were in no way destitute of food.

Even the loss of their baggage was not severely felt as the female portion were enabled to make clothing of the ship's linen for themselves and the children, and a good supply of fresh water was procured from springs in the rocks. On their arrival at Panama they looked much more happy than the passengers of the "America," who had been cooped up on the ship for thirty days. We heard few or no complaints from them, all appearing satisfied that everything possible to do for their comfort after the accident was done by the officers of the ship. In fact many of them, now that the danger is past, look back upon the incident as rather an agreeable episode in their lives, though probably few of them would care to enjoy it a second time. At last accounts the ship had broken up, and was in the hands of wreckers.

Further Strife—Can it Not be Avoided?

The careful reader of the report herewith printed of President Johnson's colloquy on Saturday with certain prominent South Carolinians, having previously pondered the proceedings of the late meeting in Boston and the letter in our last of Robert Dale Owen to the President, will have gained therefrom much light on the political situation and the difficulties which still environ the pending "reconstruction." Our own hopes of an early and satisfactory solution of all our difficulties are strengthened daily.

If we differ with Mr. Owen, and more pointedly with the able and upright men who gave tone to the Boston meeting, it is not with respect to the end they contemplate, but to the means whereby it is to be achieved. We feel that a reconstruction which should leave four millions of our people politically voiceless and impotent would not merely be unjust to the freedmen and perilous to the Republic, but that it would be especially baneful to that part of our country wherein the blacks are mainly found. The South pre-eminently needs that her people be reconciled to each other, and that they cordially combine their best efforts to rebuild her waste places, and not merely restore her past productiveness and thrift, but carry each to a point far beyond the highest standard of the times forever past. The South needs not only to revive, and ultimately to extend, her former production of cotton, rice, sugar, tobacco, &c., &c., but at the same time to rebuild her railroads and bridges, replace on her rivers the steamboats and other means of transportation which have been almost entirely destroyed, also to open her innumerable mines, renew her supply of draft animals and other cattle, set wheels to turning and mills to running on her water-courses, yet double and quadruple her annual productions of grain and other elements of food. And her more intelligent classes—nearly all of them impoverished, many actually famishing—must feel this as keenly as we do.

If we differ somewhat with Mr. Owen, still more with the solid men of Boston, it is on this point: They assume that our only hope for justice and enfranchisement to the Freedmen is based on Federal authority and interposition; we trust, on the contrary, that the ruling caste at the South may be prompted to do what is just and needful by their own enlightened convictions of justice, security and wise policy. And if the end in view can be thus attained, all will unite in deeming it preferable to any other. If the South shall voluntarily enfranchise her own Freemen, or a large proportion of them, proffering like enfranchisement to the residue on conditions which they may, by industry and frugality, fulfill, this will certainly be much better, more satisfactory, more enduring, than if imposed at the bayonet's point by Presidential ukase or Congressional act. And, if threats that enfranchisement shall be imposed from without tend to obscure a prospect of its being deliberately accorded from within, then they surely should be sparingly indulged or utterly forbore.

HE WILL DO AS WELL AS HE CAN.—It has been pertinently remarked, that if the President "cannot confer the right of suffrage upon the colored Southern people, he can and will keep them free, and contribute to their moral and physical welfare. If he cannot do that in the South which the best statesmen in the land have failed to do for the negroes in the North, he can protect the liberated masses of that long persecuted race, against the attempt of their late masters to restore the horrors of an accursed system."

MR. LINCOLN'S ESTATE.—The Chicago Journal says: Mr. Lincoln's estate, when he was first elected to the Presidency, did not exceed $15,000 in value. The total real estate owned by him was his house at Springfield and one hundred and sixty acres of land in Iowa, which he received from the Government for service in the Black Hawk war. From his salary he realized about $30,000 over and above his expenses. The above items constitute the entire amount left his family by the late President.

The Vacant Supreme Judgeship.

The question as to who is to be appointed Judge of the Supreme Court in the place made vacant by the death of Judge Catron, is becoming interesting. Horace Maynard, of Tennessee, and Judge Dorrell, of Louisiana, are principally mentioned in connection with the office. Mr. Hahn, of New Orleans, is a candidate, but his oppossion to the policy of the Government leaves him in the cold. Mr. Maynard appears to stand the best chance.

Muster out of More Troops.

It is reported that the order was issued to-day for the immediate muster out of forty more regiments of the Potomac army. Some of the divisions now have only four or five regiments left.

The Receipts from Customs

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1865, it is believed, will show a falling off as compared with 1864, from eighteen to twenty millions of dollars. During the eleven months of the past fiscal year New York, which usually furnishes about five-eights of the revenue from that source, produced only about fifty-three millions of dollars against twenty-four millions during the corresponding period of last year. The total revenue from customs this year, if it reaches eighty millions will be more than is expected. It is estimated by the Internal Revenue Bureau that the receipts from that source for the fiscal year ending June 30th next, will amount to between two hundred and six and two hundred and seven millions of dollars.

The Great Conspiracy.

The Question of Jurisdiction.

Judge Advocate Bingham's Argument.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 27.

The argument of Mr. Bingham, Special Judge Advocate, in reply to the several arguments in defense of Mary E. Surratt and others, contains the following points:

"The rebellion, in aid of which this great conspiracy was formed, and this great public crime committed, was prosecuted for the vindication of no right—for the redress of no wrong—but was itself simply a criminal conspiracy of gigantic dimensions. The court had already averred the plea of the jurisdiction.

He would pass it over in silence but for the fact that it had been gravely argued by counsel for the accused, denying the authority of the President to constitute this commission is an averment that this tribunal is not a court of justice, has no legal existence and no power to hear and determine the issue, joined in making this averment. The counsel should show how the President could otherwise discharge the duty enjoined upon him by his oath to protect, preserve and defend the Constitution and take care that the laws be faithfully executed. As to the argument that the civil courts are open in this district he answered that they are closed throughout half of the republic, and were in this district only by the force of the bayonet. Withdraw the military forces and would the rebel marauders in the vicinity, allow their confederates here to be tried in this or any other Court? The conspirator who assassinated the President was not arrested by civil process, but pursued by the military power, captured and slain. Was this an act of usurpation? Who in all this land is bold enough or base enough to assist it. If the President is justified in this act, what law condemns him for arresting in like manner and subjecting to trial according to military laws, all other parties to this conspiracy.

The Judge Advocate argued that the Court having been constituted by the President it was not in their power, as interiors, to disobey. The Supreme Court had decided that the acceptance of the Judicial of a court is a recognition of the authority from which it is derived. The gentleman might as well ask the Supreme Court to decide that the President had no authority to nominate and that the Senate had no authority to confirm the judges composing that court.

The Judge Advocate proceeded, at length, in reply to the argument of Counsel, citing precedents, and sustaining the action of the Government. He then proceeded to show that the proclamations of the President, issued during the rebellion for the suppression of the same, and among them, the one providing for the trial of all rebels and insurgents, their aiders or abettors, by court martial or civil commission, were ratified by Congress; also, that the Supreme Court had decided that so much of these proclamations as provided for the courts martial or military commissions, needed no ratification. The Judge Advocate did not review the testimony.

After Associate Judge Advocate Bingham had delivered his argument, the Court adjourned till 10 o'clock P. M., to-morrow.

The World's Columbia, S. C., letter of the 21st says: Along the main roads for hundreds of miles around Columbia the country has been stripped of its necessities; horses, mules, provisions and even chickens are all gone, and the railroads torn up. It is no figure of speech to say these people are starving. The little harvest of wheat is being reaped, but they have no mills to grind it. The corn will soon be eatable, but they have already suffered from the pangs of hunger. They are destitute of almost everything, and all poor alike.

The wealth of the Carolinas consist of lands, negroes and mules. Of the latter they have been deprived by either army, and of the two former, the more they have the worse they are off. Hundreds of them are living with their less miserable neighbors or friends, unable to get anywhere, unable to work, and begging among beggars in dress and in pretensions. The general temper and spirit of South Carolina is in no degree refractory, the people submissive, and for the most part resolved to do the best they can under the circumstances.

There is a general wonder why a provisional Governor has not been appointed, but no meetings have been held to express their views, desires or their preference. As far as I have heard, I think W. W. Boyce is the most popular man of the best class of people. Ex-Gov. Aiken is felt to be too old. Mr. Boyce is at home, west of here, and speaks very candidly and fairly of the position.

Mr. Trenholm, of the Confederate States Treasury, who was lately arrested here and sent to Charleston, confesses to complete subjugation, and says he has no doubt the country will be eventually happier as a united, and more prosperous as a free people.

Gen. Preston, who was former Minister, is also here, and acquiesces very gracefully in the new dispensation. Wade Hampton, however, is understood popularly to represent another class of thinkers, who are eminently disgusted with the result, and who intend to quit the country as soon as they are able to do so.

I have heard persons throw doubt upon this position as far as Hampton is concerned. They say that he is quietly going to settle down. On the other hand I heard a well known clergyman say that Wade Hampton's and about six hundred other families had determined to emigrate to Brazil. I expect this means when they get the means, and I predict that before that time comes most of them will have changed their minds. Not more than five or six of the whole will reach Brazil, and one-half of them will return.

General Sherman and President Lincoln.

"Agate," the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, who accompanied Chief Justice Chase on his tour along the Southern coast, gives the following item of interest in a letter written from "off Fort Macon, North Carolina, June 7:"

A dispatch from General Sherman (on his way North from Savannah, and forced by bad weather to put in at Beaufort) had reached Newbern while we were there, expressing a very earnest desire to see Chief Justice Chase; and on the return of the entire party, General Sherman's vessel was lying at the wharf, opposite the railroad terminus, awaiting us. Nervous and restless as ever, the General looked changed and improved since the old campaigns in the Southwest. He was boiling over with pride at the performances of his army through the winter, and all the more indignant, by consequence, at the insults and injustice he imagined himself to have received, in consequence of his arrangement with Johnston. "I fancied the country wanted peace," he exclaimed. "If they don't, let them raise more soldiers."

The General complained, and doubtless with some truth, if not justice, that the Government had never distinctly explained to him what policy it desired to have pursued. "I asked Mr. Lincoln explicitly, when I went up to City Point, whether he wanted me to capture Jeff. Davis or let him escape, and in reply he told me a story."

That "story" may now have a historical value, and I give it therefore as General Sherman said Mr. Lincoln told it—only promising that it was a favorite story with Mr. Lincoln, which he told many times, and in illustration of many points of public policy.

"I'll tell you, General," Mr. Lincoln was said to have begun, "I'll tell you what I think about taking Jeff. Davis. Out in Sangamon county there was an old temperance lecturer who was very strict in the doctrine and practice of total abstinence. One day, after a long ride in the hot sun, he stopped at the house of a friend who proposed making him a lemonade. As the mild beverage was being mixed, the friend insinuatingly asked if he wouldn't like just the least drop of something stronger, to brace up his nerves after the exhausting heat and exercise. 'No,' replied the lecturer, 'I couldn't think of it; I am opposed to it on principle. But,' he added, with a longing glance at the black bottle that stood conveniently at hand, 'if you could manage to put in a drop unbeknownst to me, I guess it wouldn't hurt me much.'

"Now General," Mr. Lincoln is said to have concluded, "I'm bound to oppose the escape of Jeff. Davis; but if you could manage to let him slip out unbeknownst like, I guess it wouldn't hurt me much!"

"And that," exclaimed General Sherman, "is all I could get out of the Government as to what its policy was concerning the rebel leaders, till Stanton assailed me for Davis' escape!"

Singular Calamity to Soldiers.

The Mobile Tribune, of a late date, in speaking of a severe storm which recently visited that neighborhood, says, "A tree in the camp of the 28th Indiana volunteers, Company B, Capt. H. H. Lee, was struck by lightning, killing private W. Edwards, severely shocking private Thos. Nugent, A. B. Marcus, T. Barley, Geo. Oliver, Warrin Todd, Andrew Todd, George Montgomery, George H. Wilcox; also, First Sergeants W. H. McDonald, and J. H. Hill. Private Thomas Nengent was holding his gun in his hand at the time the tree was struck. The electricity ran down the barrel of his gun, shattering the stock, but, strange to say, did not injure the man other than giving him a heavy shock. Shocks from the lightning strokes were felt over the entire camp. In Companies K and I of the same regiment a tree was blown down, and fell upon two tents, but did not injure any one.

In the 69th Indiana Volunteers a large pine in the centre of the camp of Company D was struck by lightning, the electricity branching off in three directions, one running down the barrel of a gun which was standing against a tree, and forcing the plug out of the barrel; another struck private Allen C. Bracay, of Co. B, paralysing three toes of the left foot, and severely shocking him. The use of his foot was restored by freely bathing it in cold water. No other effect than a little soreness is to be felt from it now. This is the second time this regiment has suffered from lightning. In their march to Jackson the staff of their regimental colors was shattered to pieces and two men killed. Considerable damage was also experienced in different sections of the city, many fences, sheds, &c., being blown down."

A singular calamity happened to the 152d Illinois regiment at Tullahoma, Tenn., on the 19th inst. While mounting guard a thunderbolt struck and knocked down nearly every man of the guard. One man, named Jeremiah Cooney, was instantly killed, while thirty-two others were more or less injured. The men were mostly injured in the region of the shoulders, arms and hips, they being at the time at "support arms." In several instances mens' boots and shoes were torn from their feet, yet none of their feet were injured.

General Grant at a Church Dedication.

The Spring Garden Street Church, Philadelphia, Rev. A. Cookman, pastor, located at Twentieth and Spring Garden streets, was dedicated on Sabbath last, Rev. Bishop Simpson preaching the dedication sermon. The attendance in the morning was very large, every available spot in the auditorium being crowded to excess. At about 10½ o'clock, Lieutenant General Grant, with two of his children and a portion of his staff, entered the church, accompanied by Geo. H. Stuart, Esq. Rev. Mr. Neill took the party in charge, and escorted them to seats within the altar, where they remained throughout the services, the General especially listening with marked attention to the eloquent discourse of the Bishop. While the subscriptions were being made, General Grant called to him one of the officials of the church, who immediately announced that the General desired to contribute five hundred dollars for himself and one hundred dollars for his wife.

Rev. Mr. Cookman subsequently introduced the General to the audience, who all arose to their feet, and in a few minutes he was completely surrounded by ladies and gentlemen anxious to shake hands with him. Considerable time elapsed before he was permitted to take his departure.

In the evening one thousand dollars were quickly subscribed to set apart a pew forever for the use of General Grant and family. The entire contributions of the day reached the very handsome sum of fifteen thousand dollars.

Gen. Terry, commanding at Richmond, has issued an order announcing that slavery having ceased to exist in Virginia, all the State and municipal laws restraining the personal liberty of colored persons have become obsolete, and that hereafter the colored people will enjoy the same personal liberty as the whites, and be subject to only the same restraints and punishments. Vagrancy, however, will not be permitted on the part of the negro any more than on that of white citizens. The testimony of colored persons, he also states, will be received in all cases before the military courts in his Department.

DIED.

ROBINSON—On Tuesday, June 27th, SARAH ELIZABETH, infant daughter of Joseph E. and Rebecca A. Robinson.

Her funeral will take place from No. 65 Lacock street, Allegheny, THIS DAY, at 3 o'clock, P. M.

What is to be Done, and How to do It.

In the confusion and peril of public affairs, for the last four years, one great, absorbing aim has been kept steadily in view. To this have been devoted the highest efforts of thought and the most vigorous exertions of physical power. That aim was, the maintenance of our Government in its unity, purity and entireness. The confusion and peril had their source in the slave power, which was not an element, so much as an accident, of the Government. Its disturbing influence, as an incompatible accretion to democracy, had long been felt in every department and interest of the Government. But, until it took an attitude of open antagonism and hostility, it was borne with. When it attempted the usurpation and overthrow, or the division of the Government, it was bravely resisted and completely vanquished. The overthrow of slavery was inevitable, either in the process, or as the result of achieving this victory over the slave power. Had it not been done two years ago, it would have been done now. Slavery was the great lever held by the slave power, by which they disturbed the Government and by which they endeavored to move it from its old foundations.

Now that the strife of war has ended in the maintenance of our Government, in its unity, and purity, what remains to be done? It obviously is the duty of the country now to repair the damage which has been done by this hostile power. This will not be found only within the period of the past four years. It will not be found merely in the malign influence exerted directly on the Government in its legislation and administration. It will be discovered in the terribly debasing influence it has had over large numbers of people more immediately within the scope of its power, shutting out the facilities for education; monopolizing, by the aid of wealth, political influence; discouraging aspirations in the minds of the masses by partial legislation; and, in addition to all this, which affects the political and social condition of the white masses injuriously, keeping vast numbers of people in the state of absolute bondage, as mere chattel property, to be sold, bought and worked for the benefit of owners. These are damages to be repaired. The slave-power has deprived the country of the advantages which it might have derived from these large classes of its population, had they been admitted to the fair chances of improvement and elevation and influence which, in a democratic country, every citizen may aspire to.

The nature of the work indicates, with a good degree of directness and clearness, how it is to be performed; yet, in order to its accomplishment, some prudential considerations must be taken into account. Time must be given. The damages which have resulted from ages of wrong and misrule, cannot be expected to disappear at the first magic word of philanthropy, or at the first enactment of political justice. The evils existing at the South have, by long continuance, become almost normal. Their removal demands not only effort, but patient effort. Again, the traditionary distinctions of color, especially as giving rise to class legislation, should be obliterated. Education is a prime necessity, both for white and colored people. The introduction of new classes of people, intelligent, enterprising, industrious would, by social influence and example, elevate and improve the several neighborhoods in which they might settle, and instill life and energy among those who have long been down-trodden and discouraged by the proud aristocracy of the slave power. By such means, the Southern part of our Union may, in a moderate period, be placed on a footing of equality, in point of intelligence, material prosperity, and political condition, with any part of our land. It has many peculiar advantages, and its emancipation from the slave power renders them available, along with others which are now attainable.

It may be proper to notice some of the difficulties encountered in this work. We have already adverted to one or two; the impatience of delay and of processes which are from their nature slow, and the prejudice of color. Perhaps the most considerable one is the confounding of humane and political views of the condition and necessities of the colored people. It is natural that the prominence which they have had in the origin and prosecution of the war should enlist a stronger political interest for them than for the poor whites, and it is equally natural that the humane sympathy which has been felt for them should now embrace their political condition. Their interests, though not in these respects identical, may nevertheless be advocated in both, the right order being taken and adequate time being given. Hasty movements not being demanded, we may rest safely in the assurance that the slave power being broken, the population, both white and black that has suffered by its tyranny, will arise to the stature, privileges and responsibilities of free men.

Reconstruction in North Carolina.

The consolidation of the scattered, fragmentary and incongruous elements of the Southern branch of the political Union, is not the work of a day; and it is not accomplished by a stroke of official pens, or exhaustive, definitive speeches of representative men. Hence, among men of patient observation, no surprise is felt, that the work of reconstruction drags slowly along. In North Carolina, a State towards which public attention is conspicuously drawn, Gov. HOLDEN is proceeding with deliberate caution, maintaining constant intercourse with the authorities at Washington. He is not, as might be expected, neglecting the interests of his own State. It is announced, that it is his policy to retain for the use of the State, the cotton, resin, and other products, owned by the State, and intended for the furtherance of the rebellion; the property to be used for the liquidation of the State debt, contracted before the war. The Secretary of the Treasury differs with the Governor on the subject, and has ordered the shipment of the cotton and resin to New York, as captured property.

The disposition toward the freedmen in the State is anything but friendly. In many cases they have been beaten, and otherwise more cruelly treated than when they were slaves; and some of the negroes are even held in bondage as of old. A correspondent writes: "Some of our officers are said to be recognizant of these facts, but living a life of "inelegant ease" in garrison, and being under the influence of the old slaveholders, who dinner them and supper them and ride them, not a few are inclined to close their eyes at these outrages. The soldiers also aid the whites in abusing the negroes, and between the two poor cuffee is cuffed about more than ever. The influence of the aristocrats on the military is anything but beneficial. Gen. SCHOFIELD and other commanders seem to have a clear conception of the right and wrong of the matter, but their subordinates in command of posts and garrisons have in some cases been guilty of the most reprehensible conduct."

Large numbers of negroes left the plantations on the march of our armies through the State, leaving behind the old and decrepit and those too young too walk. The slaveholders complain that they are obliged to support so much "useless stock." According to Gen. SCHOFIELD'S order the old master "may not turn away" those helpless creatures. These are some of the obstacles in the way of a rapid solution of the heterogenous and discordant elements into a symmetrical social and political fabric. Wisdom and forbearance, coupled with the necessities of the situation, will no doubt, all in good time bring order out of chaos.

Returned Soldiers.

Large numbers of our country's defenders have returned to their homes, honorably discharged from the service which they honorably fulfilled. Many have passed through the city, on their homeward way. Many halted here, who reside in the vicinity. The large majority of them, we believe, are desirous of obtaining employment, in any business or industrial pursuit for which they may be qualified. There is a disposition, among the people, to employ them, as far as practicable. We have always taken a lively interest in our soldiers, not forgetting that, while soldiering was embraced under a patriotic impulse, for a time, the principal portion of their life would be spent, as citizens, in the pursuits of peace.

Now, that the happy time has come, when these pursuits engage them, we are happy to see them resuming their places in business and labor. And we cannot show our sincere interest better than by warning the comparatively few who need it, against the dangers that beset them. There are unprincipled and unscrupulous men who would, in various ways, plunder them of the last cent of their hard-earned pay. It behooves them to be on their guard against those false friends, who want to get their hands into the soldier's pocket, while hugging and caressing them with affected friendship.

We have seen accounts of numerous cases of direct robbery of this sort. In almost all cases whisky is the means of disabling the unwary soldier, and then his money mysteriously disappears. We counsel all our soldier friends to steer clear of such places where they are exposed to such dangers. The savings of months or years may go in an hour, if caution is dismissed. Employment, home, and the intercourse of real and trusty friends, will afford safety as well as enjoyment. Idleness, dissipated habits, and frequenting places of vicious resort, will insure ruin and misery. Throw out a strong skirmish line of correct principles around you, brave boy; fortify your position with sober, virtuous habits, and you will live respected, beloved and happy.

English Buncombe.

There is in England a constituency to be consulted in election times, as there is in this country. The ministry, in the coming election, cannot afford to take the slightest risk in sustaining a measure that may not be placable to their mob. Its legality and justice is entirely out of the category. It is the custom on occasions, in England, to talk a good deal about traditional pluck. In a few months a new Parliament is to be elected, and the whole kingdom is being canvassed for votes. It will never do for ministerial candidates to go before the people under the impression that the pride of the British Lion is about to be humiliated, more especially if "JONATHAN" is supposed to be mixed up in the "about to be" humiliation. Wherefore it is that the ministerial press are dilating so largely on the claims made by this country, respecting the captures of the Alabama, fitted out and supplied in English ports to prey upon American commerce. A towering indignation is displayed. "England will never pay. It is absurd, preposterous, and insulting to make such a demand." In a few months we shall see how much of this is buncombe. Those who are supposed to be well informed in regard to the real intentions of the English Cabinet, say they mean to pay. They only mean to stave it off until after election. That once over, the claims will be paid. The present growling of the British Lion only means "vote for PALMERSTON," nothing more.

No Friends.

It does not appear that in all the South, JEFF. DAVIS has a single friend to speak for him. It is a fact to be noted, that in no quarter is the slightest interest manifested in his situation or fate. The bond of sympathy, if it ever existed, has been broken. So far as there has been any utterance given to public or private feeling, in the seceded States, it has been that of hostility toward DAVIS, under a sense of wrong and injury inflicted by him. It is entirely evident that the fallen chief has not the sympathy of a single Southern public man. Those who have spoken have betrayed a feeling more of rejoicing than regret at his fall and capture. We look in vain for the evidences of concern for his fate, for the strong protest and petition which devotion would naturally prompt and cause to be preferred at almost any sacrifice. There is nothing of the kind; and it is this fact, more than anything else, perhaps, that affords the proof of the utter absence of sympathy for DAVIS. It is not too much to say, the people of the South, in their hearts, are quite turned against their late leaders and destroyers. This is inseparable from the condition of failure and ruin into which the South has been plunged, and will prove an assisting element in restoring old relations in the Union.

Disappointed.

It has been not a little amusing, to notice the endeavors of the forlorn, broken-down faction of stragglers, the peace democrats, to make something, for themselves, out of the events of the times. It was funny, to see the two or three leaders, most distinguished for their abuse of President JOHNSON, siding up to him, with patronizing smiles, suggesting ideas, and priding themselves in his democratic antecedents. And, then, it provoked uncontrolable laughter, to see them, with a terriffic strabismus, turning the other eye on the democratic antecedents of some of the President's counselors, Mr. STANTON, for example.

But the game doesn't work. ANDY JOHNSON don't take to TYLERING, at all. He is true to the principles that he espoused, in the hour of his country's peril; and true to the sentiment of the people, on which he was elected. Like his lamented predecessor, he seeks the good of the whole country. He is courteous to all, but he cannot be led nor driven into any such policy as would be most pleasing to the survivors of the wreck of the Chicago Platform. No, no, ANDY JOHNSON and JOHN TYLER are not of the same genus.

The Detroit Commercial Convention.

This meeting will be on the eleventh, instead of the seventeenth of July. It will be one of the most influential meetings ever held in this country, and will exert an important influence on the policy of the Government in more than one respect. We trust Pittsburgh will not fail to be fully represented.

We, of Pennsylvania, favor protection because such a tax is a benefit to our capitalists and our labor.—Pittsburgh Post.

The Post does not correctly state the question. "We of Pennsylvania," are for protection, because it is the only financial policy whereby the country can prosper and the Government discharge its obligations. Our public expenses are to be met, and the interest of our debt is to be paid, by internal taxation. With manufacturing prosperity, with labor and capital profitably employed, there will be products, profits and incomes whereon to levy taxes. There being a wide surface over which to spread them, they will be comparatively light, and the Government, as well as the people, will be flush. Contract that surface, diminish the products, or, in certain cases, destroy them altogether, as you would by buying abroad—thus giving to foreign labor the employment and foreign capital the profits—and you have neither whereon to levy your taxes nor wherewith to pay. Times become hard, the Government is embarrassed, credit will be shaken, because the prosperity we might have has been transferred to other countries. The mill whose customers have gone elsewhere becomes worthless and the owner bankrupt. Herein are the grounds on which "we of Pennsylvania" advocate protection. The reasons are as good for the agricultural as the mining or manufacturing States, and though it may cost something to learn it, in the end we will come to know by heart the lesson whereof the moral is,—live within yourselves, give employment to home labor and capital, bring more of both from abroad to your own shores, keep the trade and the profits among yourselves, and you will continually prosper.

CONSTERNATION AMONG THEM.—The late amnesty proclamation of the President, has of course, excited a good deal of interest abroad, among those interested in our affairs. Many consider the exclusions too sweeping. In Paris, Southerners who were preparing to come back into the Union, have been thrown into the greatest consternation, as by the terms of the Proclamation they find the "amnesty" part not applicable to themselves. They appear a good deal humbled and depressed, and say but little. They assert that they will not make personal application for pardon, but will go to Mexico and offer their services to MAXIMILIAN. Those however, who are not excluded from the benefits of the "amnesty" are preparing to return, and are daily walking up to the legation and taking the prescribed oath with as good a grace as possible. As a general rule the Southerners acknowledge the rebellion as finished forever, and seem disposed to enter in good faith into their new relations with our Government. The most malignant and unscrupulous revilers of the Government and country, and people, in Paris, are Northern traitors—a few men who, from the beginning of the war to the present, have been loud and foul-mouthed in their treasonable language whenever and wherever they could obtain a hearing.

REBEL VERSION.—The rebel version of the capture of DAVIS is that, on being surprised, "DAVIS threw a cloak over his shoulders and started for his horse, about forty steps from his tent. As he set out Mrs. DAVIS threw a veil over his hat. He had got but a few steps, when a cavalryman rode up, and presenting his gun to him, cried out: 'I know you, you old scoundrel; I have seen you before; surrender.' (It seems that he had lived in Richmond since the war began.) As he stopped Mr. DAVIS, Mrs. DAVIS ran to him, and throwing her arms around his neck, begged him to spare his life. Colonel PRITCHARD, the commander of the pursuing cavalry, now rode up, and assured her he should not be hurt."

JUDGE MCCUNN, of New York, is one of a committee appointed to visit the President on behalf of JOHN MITCHEL. The Judge has not been in Washington since late in the winter of 1861, when he was playing Colonel about the hotels in that city. He was put under arrest for insubordination, sent out of the city and prohibited in an order signed by Gen. MCCLELLAN from returning to it. That order has not yet been rescinded, and the Judge may find the approach to the President somewhat obstructed in consequence. Of course the Government cannot permit his presence in Washington until the rights in the matter have been duly investigated.

"BELLIGERENTS."—Some of the unemployed "Confederates" have lately taken to plundering British vessels on the west coast of Ireland. From an extract in an English journal, it appears that a coasting vessel was attacked three weeks ago by several boats' crews, of the same class of belligerents who have been preying upon our merchantmen for the past four years. No resistance was made, and the vessel was plundered to the entire satisfaction of the attacking party. This can but be regarded an ungrateful return for the numerous instances of "belligerent" hospitality so freely extended by the British Government.

SMUGGLERS ARRESTED.—Within a few days a number of persons in Detroit and vicinity have been arrested by the United States authorities on a charge of smuggling. At the house where they were caught, a short distance from Detroit, were found eight or ten barrels of liquor recently brought from Canada, and a quantity of engraved copper plates for altering bank notes, dies and other counterfeiting materials.

General Intelligence.

The religious weekly papers of Cincinnati have a circulation of 157,300.

There will be a large crop of corn throughout the whole Red River country.

The assistant Provost Marshals of Missouri are to be relieved on the first of July.

Two cases of Asiatic cholera occurred in St. Louis last Sunday. Both proved fatal in a few hours.

During the past thirty days there have been discharged from Government employ, one thousand vessels of all descriptions, at Fortress Monroe.

The city gates of Quebec have never been without guards, since its capture from the French by General Wolffe, until last Thursday week, when they were permanently withdrawn.

The health of New Orleans is reported as remarkably good for this season of the year. The late rains have had a beneficial effect upon the sanitary condition of the city.

The Mexican emigrant agency in Detroit is crowded with parties anxious to go to Mexico. A large number of men have been forwarded to the general rendezvous in New York.

A Shreveport (La.) correspondent says: Here, and throughout all this neighborhood of country, the negroes are leaving their old plantation homes, and coming within the lines of Federal occupation.

The officers of the United States transport Kentucky have been acquitted of the charges made against them, in connection with the loss of that vessel. Another investigation has been ordered by Maj. Gen. Herron.

A heavy land slide on the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, above Jersey Shore, occurred Monday a week, carrying away the road bed, along the mountain side, for some hundred feet.

The Board of Visitors to West Point have recommended the number of cadets to be increased to four hundred, nearly double the present number. The graduating class this year numbers sixty eight, the largest ever before graduated.

The fragments of the disbanded Confederate forces in Texas, near Shreveport, are very troublesome. Without the slightest hesitation they press horses and mules into their individual service, and sometime demand money and other articles.

An Easter egg for the Spanish Infanta was recently made in Paris; it cost 20,000f, and was made of white enamel. On the inside the text of St. Matthew, describing the Resurrection, was enameled, and a cock, when the egg was opened, would sing twelve different airs from favorite operas.

A cave, nearly as large as the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, has recently been dicovered about ten miles from Fort Ruby, California. It was found to be an immense subterranean lake of clear water, with high walls of limestone on either side. The ceiling or arch is fifty feet high.

It appears that the aggregate circulation of all the daily papers in Cincinnati is 82,750. Of these the circulation of the Gazette is 26,600; Commercial, 22,000; Times, 11,000; Enquirer, 10,000; Volksfriend, 7,000; Volksblatt, 5,000; Union, 150. The total circulation of the weekly issues of the papers above named, is 125,200.

The conduct of the colored laborers in Louisiana is represented as giving a good deal of trouble. They have the wildest idea of freedom, and are leaving the plantations in great numbers. Gen. Herron is doing all in his power to persuade them to stay. It is thought that, if Government rations are issued to them, none will work.

The epidemic at St. Petersburg does not seem to be diminishing. By the last accounts the number of persons suffering from it amounts from 300 to 350 daily, and the number of deaths to about 90. On the 23d of May there were 1,130 patients in the hospitals, 361 new ones were admitted, 253 were sent away cured, and 97 died.

In Chicago, engineers are engaged in making a survey of the canal, and the work of deepening it will be commenced as soon as possible. It is proposed to deepen the canal to such an extent that the Chicago river will flood into the Illinois, that being the plan adopted for the cleansing of the former. The cost of deepening the canal will amount to $2,000,000.

A singular instance of the attachment of a robin for its young occurred in Bath, Steuben County, New York, lately. Her nest was in a tree near a house which took fire. She flew from her nest and endeavored, in the most persuasive manner, to call her little brood away. The bird flew back and forth a few moments, then, finding her efforts unavailing, calmly took her place upon the nest, where mother and little ones perished in the flames.

Mr. F. Pfoff, of Loretto, Blair county, accompanied by his son and two of his neighbors, went to a mill-dam near that place, at about twelve o'clock on Wednesday night, of last week, for the purpose of taking up some outlines which they had set for eels, and when the party got about the middle of the pond the boat capsized and they were all thrown into the water. The three men struck out for the shore, but the cries for help of his son induced Mr. P. to go to his assistance, when they were both drowned—the darkness of the night preventing the other parties from rendering them aid.

The state of society in North Carolina is reported as unsettled and uprooted to the last degree. Meetings for social intercourse are scarcely known, though when opportunity offers, the whites pride themselves on the exercise of a generous hospitality. Public meetings are only in vogue among the blacks. A correspondent says: "The few Northern ladies mingle together and enjoy themselves notwithstanding the exclusiveness of the residents. Grouped together on the shady portico of the Exchange hotel—a Yankee institution—they appear like strangers in a strange land, and their talk and chat of home reminds one forcibly of an assemblage of American tourists in Europe."

Denominational and Personal.

Rev. Dr. Palmer, formerly of New Orleans, and so notorious for his defense of slavery as a divine institution, is now endeavoring to form a colony to emigrate to Brazil. The country can spare him.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher preached last Sabbath in Georgetown, and had in the pulpit with him Rev. Edward Beecher, D. D., Rev. Charles Beecher, pastor at Georgetown, and Rev. Henry Beecher, son of Edward.

The Methodists in the United States, who in 1850, with a membership of 689,082, raised $107,836 for the cause of missions, in 1864, under the leadership of Dr. Durbin, with a membership of 928,320, raised for the same purpose the sum of $568,893.

The place made vacant by the recent death of Rev. Dr. Chester,—the Secretaryship of the Old School Board of Education—has been filled by the appointment of Rev. Dr. Gurley, of Washington, the pastor of President Lincoln. The office of the board is in Philadelphia.

Rev. George Duffield, jr., who was recently dismissed from his church in Adrian, Michigan, in consequence of the free utterance of his opinions in favor of freedom and righteousness, has been promptly taken up, and has accepted a call to the Second Presbyterian Church in Galesburg, Illinois.

From resolutions, testimonies and manifestoes coming in from all quarters, the religious world, north, appears to be almost universally in favor of negro suffrage, in some form; certainly it is far more a unit in this matter, than it ever was on the general subject of slavery, before the war.

Rev. Dr. Muhlenburg of New York, of the Church of the Holy Communion, who is under the censure of Bishop Potter, for taking part in the services of the Christian Union Meeting, is supported and defended in his position by several prominent Low Church clergymen, including such names as Dr. Tyng, Dr. Canfield and Rev. John Cotton Smith.

The London Patriot says: "Nothing can be more wise and just than the conduct of the American Government since the termination of the war. As we anticipated, the close of the struggle, instead of bringing the rowdy party to the front, and inspiring neighboring peoples with just alarm, has lent dignity and gravity to the counsels of the Government and the conduct of the nation."

Since the 8th of December last $150,000 have been added to the funds of the Union Theological Seminary in New York city. Of this sum John C. Baldwin, Esq., of New York, gives $20,000; two brothers of the firm of Brown Brothers & Co., give $25,000; Prof. S. F. B. Morse, gives $10,000; Z. Stiles Ely, Esq., gives $10,000; William E. Dodge, Esq., $12,000; Joseph Howland, Esq., $10,000; and other smaller donations make up the amount.

Rev. Richard Fuller, D. D., of Baltimore, a Baptist clergyman of considerable note, but of doubtful loyalty, has been permitted to publish in the Examiner and Chronicle, of New York, a somewhat extended diary of a recent journey South, in which he was expected to recant some of his former errors and heresies; but the result is unsatisfactory, and the editor declares that he has searched the record in vain to find "one unqualified condemnation of the rebellion, as an unreasonable and wicked attempt upon the national life."

Rev. Dr. Haven, of the Chicago Theological Seminary, in his address this year to the graduating class, had the following beautiful thought: "It may not be possible for you to be a star shining in glory in the upper firmament. What then? It may be yours to be as the quiet little lake, small but very clear, hid away among the mountains, sheltered from the ruder winds, surrounded by verdure, and opening its bosom to the heavens and reflecting the glory of that brilliant upper light."

Letter from General Rosecrans to General Halleck.

HEADQ'RS DEP'T OF THE CUMBERLAND,
MURFREESBORO, TENN., March, 6, 1863.

Major General H. W. Halleck, General in Chief U. S. A., Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL.—Yours of the 1st inst., announcing the offer of a vacant Major Generalship to the General in the field who first wins an important and decisive victory, is received.

As an officer and a citizen, I feel degraded at such an auctioneering of honor. Have we a General who would fight for his own personal benefit, when he would not for honor and his country? He will come by his commission basely in that case, and deserve to be despised by men of honor. But are all brave and honorable Generals on an equality as to chances? If not, it is unjust to those who probably deserve most.

W. S. ROSECRANS, Maj. Gen.

Personal.

Chief Justice Chase, on Monday morning, took his seat on the bench with Judge Leavitt in the U. S. District Court, at Cincinnati.

Mr. Kasson, Member of Congress from Iowa, has gone to Kentucky to stump the State in favor of the Constitutional amendment.

Robert Ridgeway, the old editor of the Richmond Whig is soon to resume his former position as editor of the Whig. He has been against the "Confederacy" from the beginning.

Richard Yeadon, "the laudator" and former editor of the Charleston Courier, and who offered a reward of $10,000 for Butler's head, is living in abject poverty at Aiken. He has taken the oath of allegiance.

Prince Napoleon appears by all accounts to be preparing for a long absence from France. His Pompeiian house in the Avenue Montaigue has been sold, and for some days past his yacht has been waiting at Havre in readiness for his departure.

John Armstrong, postmaster of Springfield, Ill., was arrested last Saturday, on a charge of robbing the post office in that city. A correspondent says: Mr. Armstrong is an old resident of Springfield, and his integrity and honor have been regarded as unimpeachable. He was appointed by President Lincoln upon the grounds of long and close friendship, and over other applicants of greater influence and prominence."

A correspondent writing from Raliegh, N. C., says: "I discover among all classes a feeling of antipathy against William L. Yancey, which appears very strange to me. In reference to the probability of hanging Davis, it is a common thing to hear people here say that they wish Yancey had not died—he was the man to hang. He was the most prominent secession leader in the South, who stumped North Carolina, advocating the rebellion. His promises to pay the expenses of the war with a ten cent piece, and wipe up the blood spilled with his handkerchief are often repeated now, and his memory is held in anything but a sacred reverence."

MARRIED.

PAINTER—BLAIR—At St. Paul's church, Troy, N. Y., on Thursday, June 22d, by Rev. Dr. Coit, assisted by Rev. E. T. Chapman, AUGUSTUS E. W. PAINTER, of this city, to ALICE, daughter of Hon. George T. Blair, of the former place.

DIED:

ALLEN—On Tuesday morning, June 27, at 7 o'clock, ROBERT L. ALLEN.

Funeral will take place from his late residence, No. 106 Second street, on WEDNESDAY MORNING, at 10 o'clock. Friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

LONG—On Tuesday, June 27th, at 4 o'clock, A. M., of Cholera Infantum, MAMIE F., infant daughter of Jos. W. and Mary Y. Long.

MODERN MIRACLE.—FROM OLD and young, from rich and poor, from high born and lowly, comes the universal voice of praise for HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER. It is a perfect and miraculous article; cures baldness, makes Hair grow. A better dressing than any Oil or Pomatum. Softens harsh, dry and wiry hair into beautiful silken tresses. But above all, the great wonder is the rapidity with which it restores GRAY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. Use it a few times, and, presto, change, the whitest and worst looking Hair resumes its youthful beauty. It does not dye the Hair, but strikes at the root, and fills it with new life and coloring matter. It will not take a long, disagreeable trial to prove the truth of this matter. The first application will do good; you will see the natural color returning every day, and before you know it, the old, gray, discolored appearance of the Hair will be gone, giving place to lustrous, shining and beautiful locks. Ask for Hall's Sicilian Hair Renewer; no other article is at all like it in effect. You will find it cheap to buy, pleasant to try, and sure to do you good. There are many imitations. Be sure you procure the genuine, manufactured only by R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

JOHN S. RAREY,

Will visit PITTSBURGH on JUNE 28TH and 29TH, where he will exhibit at LAFAYETTE HALL, and deliver a series of Celebrated Lectures, in which he will fully set forth his peculiar and human method of training Horses. These lectures will be accompanied with practical illustrations of the method, when it will be made evident to the audience with what wonderful facility the most obstreperous animals can, by his kind yet determined treatment, be completely subdued and made subservient to the will of the master. Mr. Rarey has appeared before many of the crowned heads of Europe, and no verbal description can convey an adequate idea of Mr. Rarey's method of treating horses. It must be seen to be appreciated. The exhibition will take place at LAFAYETTE HALL, on WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY EVENINGS June 28th and 29th. There will be a MATINEE on THURSDAY AFTERNOON, at 3 o'clock. Doors open at 2 o'clock. There will be accommodations for ladies. Tickets for sale at Kleber's, 122 Wood street, Mellor's, Wood street, or Pittock's, Fifth street, opposite the Postoffice.

7-30 LOAN!

THIRD SERIES.

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the General Subscription Agent for the sale of United States Securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the

7-30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 Six Per Cent.

GOLD BEARING BONDS.

These bonds are now worth a handsome premium and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds from State, County and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum to their value, according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest at 7.30 per cent amounts to

One cent per day on a $50 note.
Two cents per day on a $100 note.
Ten cents per day on a $500 note.
Twenty cents per day on a $1,000 note.
One dollar per day on a $5,000 note.

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The Notes of this Third Series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent., instead of 7 3-10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this Third Series of the Seven-Thirties will commence on the first of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three-tenths per cent currency. This is

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET,

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the great

Popular Loan of the People.

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

The Spring of the Valley.

Sweet spring of the valley, I rest on thy brim,
I'm weary at heart, I'm weary in limb,
My step has grown feeble, my eyes have grown dim,
Since I heard the soft notes of thy murmuring hymns.

I kneel as of old at thy fountain to drink,
And the fresh smell of mint on thy shadowy brink
Takes me back to my youth, while I mournfully think,
To that past, save in thee, I have scarcely a link.

I remember a time when I bowed me as now
To bathe in thy waters my feverish brow;
I thought I had felt the world's cruelest blow,
For my pleading of love had been answered with "No."

But the brow was not withered, the hair was not gray,
That I saw in thy depths on that sad summer day;
'Twas the first storm that troubled my life's tranquil stream—
Now I smile as I think of my boyhood's love-dream.

I smile, for I sought then the hurrying words,
Through wildest confusion right glad to be hurled;
But found in its highways affliction so sore
That the grief of my childhood seemed mighty no more.

How changed all but thee in the valley I love!
The old have passed on to the regions above,
While the young and the fair of our juvenile band
Are scattered abroad on the sea and the land;

Yes, scattered and lost like the beauty and bloom
Of flowers that are born 'mid the wilderness' gloom,
And the village so quiet, the cottage so dear,
No more to my wondering vision appear;

The coachman's shrill horn has been hushed on the road,
The restless iron-horse, with his cumbersome load,
Pants his way through the meadows and orchards instead,
With shrieks that might waken the long-buried dead;

The smoke of the factory darkens the sky,
And hangs like a pall o'er the churchyard near by,
For the rude hand of commerce has seized on the place
And wrinkled with change its familiar old face.

Thou alone art unchanged, but thy singing is vain
To cheer as of old, or to charm away pain;
There is sympathy's tone in thy plaintive refrain,
Yet it cannot lure back my lost childhood again.

Still I seem at thy side to have met the warm clasp
Of fond, friendly hands I shall never more grasp—
Young hands that I fondled with tender caressing,
And pressed to my lips with a kiss and a blessing.

Far away, far away, in the city's close street,
Where life is a snare, an illusion, a cheat—
When I'm sick of man's perfidy, woman's deceit,
My sad heart will echo thy murmur so sweet.

But the shadows are deep'ning, the chill night is near,
And the stars must not find me still lingering here;
Alas! never more by thy side may I dwell,
Sweet spring of the valley, I leave thee—farewell!

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

CANNING VEGETABLES AND PRESERVING FRUITS.

According to Prof. Blot the philosophy of canning vegetables is best explained by impressing upon the ladies the importance of expelling all the air from the vegetables and sufficiently destroying the vitality of the plants to prevent fermentation, without extracting all the albumen. To illustrate his remarks, the Professor caused the cook to take three quarts of freshly shelled green peas, these were poured into a saucepan of water as it first boiled, on the fire, an ounce of salt being used to each gallon of water. As the scum rose to the surface, the cook took it off with a skimmer, carefully watching the slow boiling process, to prevent any of the peas from becoming more than half cooked. This point being reached, the saucepan was removed from the fire, and the water strained through a sieve. The peas were then put in some small pint and a half glass jars, arranged with covers, an iron band and screw. The peas filled up the jars as far as the rim around the neck. Some of the liquor was added, an inch or more of the water covering the peas at the top. The jars were next placed in some hot water, while the covers were being fastened upon them. The jars were thus placed in hot water to expel the air, or to rarefy what might remain, then the covers were fitted to their places. When it was desired to use these vegetables in the winter season, the jar is again put in warm water, in which it may be boiled until the peas inside are entirely cooked. Some of the glass jars used by the Professor yesterday were broken during the operation, but those that withstand the first trial can generally be depended upon for future purposes. Some of the ladies thought the jar dealers often sold an inferior article, at prices for which a better quality could be afforded. The Professor suggested that manufacturers should be required to warrant all jars sold for the preservation of canned fruits and vegetables.

In preserving perishable fruits, it is important for ladies to pay strict attention to the preparation of the syrup, as it is this article which preserves the fruit. If it is cooked too much, the fruit becomes candied; if cooked too little, the fruit will ferment. One pound of loaf-sugar, with three gills of water, being placed in a porcelain lined saucepan, was slowly boiled, and frequently skimmed, until the syrup had reached a proper state for the reception of a pound of strawberries, which were shaken into the honey-like liquid. The saucepan was now placed directly over a brisk fire, and the strawberries cooked for 5 or 8 minutes, the scum being taken off as fast as it came to the surface. Meantime some half-pint tumblers were being warmed in the steam of boiling water. When the preserves were ready, each tumbler was filled with them. A disc of foolscap paper, cut to fit inside the edge of the tumbler, was next dipped in French brandy or good American whisky, and laid on the top of the preserves in the tumbler. Another covering of foolscap was then placed over each tumbler, with margin enough to cover the outside edge, upon which it was firmly pasted; this completed the operation of preserving strawberries.

FOUR IDLE DAUGHTERS.

Yes, every one of them, idle, slothful, and, consequently, sensual and unrefined. Dress in exquisite taste, do they? No doubt, and show white fingers as they crochet or play the piano. And what if they do shine in the opera-box, or the concert-room and theatre, as the pretty B.'s? —everybody who knows them at all, knows them as four idle daughters. The gentlemen who, captives of a passing fancy, call upon them at times, know that from morning till night they pass inactive, silly lives; that their mother lives in the kitchen till her face is careworn, and her feet ready to drop with fatigue. Oh! it must be a bad thing to have four idle daughters, not one of whom is willing to lessen the burden of expense by even a trivial employment; not one of them willing to wash a muslin or prepare a meal. Useless cumberers of the ground are they, and nobody would miss them were their foolish, unreasonable lives to be cut off to-morrow. They pretend to be educated, can tell probably, that London is the metropolis of England, and France is a sunny clime; but the best of all education, good practical, common sense, genuine self respect, that should make them blush for their ignoble dependence, those four idle daughters lack. It is not genteel to wash for themselves—it is not lady like to sweep a room, except for those coarse, common-place persons who have been brought up to work. And what, pray, are they? The children of common-place people who labored as God meant every son and daughter of Adam should labor, or pay the penalty of idleness. Now they are four great animals, feeding, lounging and sleeping. They will never be either respected or beloved by anybody whose love or respect is worth a farthing. As long as their foolish mother lives she will slave for them, humor them, and please herself with the imaginary belief that they are ladies; for "they never did a stitch of work." When she dies, how maliciously the lookers on will say: "Now, these four girls have got to work; I'm glad of it." They will never find half the sympathy or respect they might have looked for, if they possessed common sense enough to employ themselves. Idleness is the nurse of sin, and it is not possible for men or women to be pure and virtuous, if they lead lives of laziness and inactivity. These four idle daughters are, consequently, to be looked upon with some suspicion. It is a hard saying, but the truth, that strict purity is incompatible with laziness. Many a fair browed girl, with sparkling eyes and engaging smile, is sadly wanting in mental innocence. Watch the deportments of the daughters you know. If at home they are ministering angels, lightening the cares of the over-taxed mothers, not ashamed to be seen with uprolled sleeves and soiled fingers; if they are always busy at some sweet, agreeable task, even in what they deem their idleness, the outward beauty of the shadow of the soul, pure, quiet, gentle, womanly. Marry one of them.

WORK-DAY RELIGION.

Gail Hamilton in her direct and forcible, but not always elegant, style, sometimes advances sentiments which we cannot approve; but the following practical view of religion commends itself to every one who desires to live a truly Christian life:

"We want a religion that softens the steps, and tunes the voice to melody, and fills the eye with sunshine, and checks the impatient exclamation and harsh rebuke; a religion that is polite, deferential to superiors, courteous to inferiors, and considerate to friends; a religion that goes into a family, that keeps the husband from being spiteful when dinner is late—keeps the wife from fretting when the husband tracks the newly-washed floor with his muddy boots, and makes the husband mindful of the scraper and the door-mat—keeps the mother patient when the baby is cross; amuses the children as well as instructs them; promptly looks after the apprentice in the shop, and the clerk behind the counter, and the student in the office, with a fatherly care and motherly love, setting the solitary in families, and introducing them to pleasant and wholesome society, that their lonely feet may not be led into temptation. We want a religion that shall interpose continually between the ruts and gullies and rocks of the highway of life, and the sensitive souls that are travelling over them.

"We want a religion that bears heavily, not only on the exceeding rascality of lying and stealing—a religion that banishes short measures from the counter, small baskets from the stalls, pebbles from the cotton bags, clay from the sugar, chiccory from the coffee, otter from butter, beet-juice from vinegar, alum from bread, strychnine from wine, water from milk-cans, and buttons from the contribution box. The religion that is to save the world will not make one half a pair of shoes of good leather and the other of poor leather, so that the first shall redound to the maker's credit, and the second to his cash; nor if the shoes be promised on Thursday morning, will it let Thursday morning spin out till Saturday night. It does not send the little boy, who has come for the daily quart of milk, to the barnyard to see the calf, and seize the opportunity to skim off the cream; nor does it surround stale butter with fresh, and sell the whole for good; nor sell off the slack-baked bread upon the stable-boy; nor 'deacon' the apples.

"The religion that is to sanctify the world pays its debts. It does not borrow money with little or no purpose of repayment, by concealing or glossing over the fact. It looks upon a man who has failed in trade and continues to live in luxury, as a thief. It looks upon him who promises to pay fifty dollars on demand, with interest, and who neglects to pay fifty dollars on demand, with, or without interest, as a liar."

THE DULLNESS OF FURNISHING.

"In the first place, we would lay down as a fundamental principle in furnishing, that the end in view should be to make a house or room cheerful, comfortable, and liveable. We say liveable, because there are so many which, though handsomely furnished, are dreary in the extreme, and the very thought of living in one of them makes one shudder. Others captivate us by their picturesque appearance, and we are inclined towards them; but one moment's peep inside dispels every wish of the kind. They are so dismal, the rooms are low, dark and small, and an atmosphere of darkness pervades the whole.

"The dull style of furnishing is, like every other style of dullness, very common. The prevailing tints are drab, oak and a dingy red. There is much neatness about it. The highly polished round table stands universally in the middle of the room, with perhaps some wax flowers—generally water-lilies, under a glass shade—in the centre; or, it may be, a bit of needlework and beads for a lamp-stand at night, and a tall, lanky glass vase for flowers by day. A few well-bound books are placed on the table at equal distances, all radiating from the centre. The carpet is a flowery pattern on a red ground, a few shades darker than the curtains, which are also red, with stripes or flowers of brown or drab. The sofa and arm-chairs have the same dull covering. There is usually a card-table; and red silk banner-screens are placed, like mutes, on each side of the fire. One never goes into the room without feeling inclined to yawn, and a sense of depression comes over one after a few minutes. It is essentially dull and drab—respectable, certainly, but painfully dull."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ FOR MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS Matthews' VENETIAN HAIR DYE has stood the test of trial, and is constantly increasing in public favor.

The VENETIAN HAIR DYE is the best and cheapest made. Its price is only 75 cents, and each bottle contains double the quantity of dye in those usually sold for $1.

THIS HAIR DYE is manufactured by a peculiar process, which renders it infinitely superior to any dye in the market. Being complete in one bottle, no preparation is required, which greatly simplifies the application.

IN USING THIS DYE, you avoid that RUSTY, DEAD appearance by which dyed hair and whiskers are so readily recognized, when an inferior article has been used, as it produces a perfectly natural color of any shade that is desired, from a rich brown to a jetty, lustrous black, that will not smut, crock or stain the clothing. Invest 75 cents, and you will be convinced. Sold by all Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers. A. I. MATTHEWS, Manufacturer.

NOTICE.

Sale of Army Mules.

QUARTERMASTER GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28, 1865.

Many thousands of Mules are being disposed of at Washington.

The sales will continue until the number of animals is reduced in proportion to the reduction of the armies, now going on rapidly.

There are in the Armies of the Potomac, of the Tennessee, and of Georgia, probably Four Thousand of the finest six-mule teams in the world.

Many of them were bought at the beginning of the war, as young mules, accompanied the armies in all their marches and camps, and are thoroughly broken, hardened by exercise, gentle and familiar, from being so long surrounded by the soldiers.

The whole South is stripped of farming stock, and the North also has suffered from the drain of animals, taken to supply the armies.

These animals are sold at public auction: they will not bring anything like their true value; and such opportunities for farmers to get working animals to stock their farms, and for drovers and dealers in stock to make good speculations, by purchasing and disposing of them in the South, will never occur again.

M. C. MEIGS, Quartermaster General, Brevet Major General.

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.

The best Patent Artificial Leg in the United States and the only one in Pittsburgh, is made by REICHENBACH, No. 58 Fourth street, near Market street.

No other person in this city has a patent for Artificial Limbs. His Patent Leg resembles the natural limb in all its movements, as well as in appearance, and cannot be detected by an experienced eye. It met the approbation of the Army Board in Washington, January 12th, 1864, at which time a patent was granted the inventor. Parties in this city and elsewhere have attempted to imitate the patent, but have only produced worthless limbs.

Crutches can be dispensed with the first time the leg is worn. On horseback, it has the power and movements as when walking.

REICHENBACH also manufactures an ARTIFICIAL HAND, which is natural in appearance and movements, and when worn but a short time by those requiring them, are indispensable. je14-1y

CITY MATTERS.

CONSECRATION SERVICES.—The Right Reverend W. B. Stevens, D. D., will consecrate St. Peter's Church, (D. V.) on Thursday morning, 29th inst., services beginning at half past ten o'clock. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. Van Deusen.

BOY DROWNED.—On Monday afternoon a colored boy named Fisher, whose mother resides in Allegheny, was drowned while bathing in the Monongahela river, near the foot of Market street. The body has not been recovered.

BIRMINGHAM WATER WORKS.—The work of laying the water mains on Carson street, East Birmingham, is progressing rapidly, and it is expected that the new works will be completed and in operation during the present year. The capacity of the works will be sufficient to supply all the boroughs south of the Monongahela with water. The capital stock of the Company is $200,000.

METEOROLOGICAL DIARY.—Taken daily by Geo. E. Shaw, Practical Optician, 58 Fifth street:

TUESDAY, June 27.

| | Sun. | Shade. |

| 9 A. M. | 105 | 79 |
| 12 M. | 120 | 71 |

| Barometer at 6 P. M. | | 29 2-10. |

PERSONAL.—Captain John J. Boyd, of Company G, 102d Pennsylvania Regiment, is at present in the city, on a short furlough. Captain Boyd enlisted in the regiment in August, 1861, as a private, and, through his good conduct and bravery, has attained the honorable position which he now occupies. He is a fit successor to the gallant Coleman, the original commander of the company, who was killed October 19, 1864. The Captain will return to his regiment on the 5th of July.

THE GERMAN TURNERS AND THE FOURTH.—As we are to have no general celebration of the Fourth of July, the patriotic people of the city will celebrate it in their own way. The Pittsburgh German Turners, we learn from Mr. Stephen M. Ott, contemplate having a procession on the Fourth, and an entertainment in one of the public halls, at which appropriate speeches will be made and patriotic songs sung. Our German fellow citizens, when they undertake a celebration of any kind, always get it up in the right style, and the Turners will doubtless prepare a suitable programme for the observance of the approaching Fourth.

ANOTHER ROBBERY.—On Monday evening as a lady was entering a train on the Pittsburgh & Connelsville Railroad, some thief snatched her carpet bag, containing articles valued at $500, from her, and escaped with his booty. These robberies are becoming quite frequent, and if the railway companies will not incur the expense of engaging a few policemen, the Mayor should detail a few of the "emergency men" to be present at the arrival and departure of trains. The traveling public should be protected from the depredations of the thieves who now infest our cities.

ARRESTED FOR LARCENY.—Wm. Adams, a son of a former Mayor of Allegheny, aged about fourteen years, was arrested on Monday night on a charge of stealing $93 and a check for $25 from Rankin's drug store, on St. Clair street. A charge was also preferred against him by Messrs. Weldon & Kelley, of Wood street, for the larceny of $40 from their establishment. The lad was arrested at Trimble's Hotel and taken before the Mayor, who sent him to the House of Refuge. The boy's father has just been discharged from the army, where he served his country honorably for the past four years.

LOST OR STOLEN.—From the Pennsylvania Railroad ticket office, last night, one grey memorandum book containing a soldier's history since January 1st, 1865, in Sherman's army. The thief, if I may call him or her so, can have the money; but if the Diary is left at the COMMERCIAL office before four o'clock this afternoon they will have the thanks of a good and true strange soldier. It is valuable to no person only the owner.

T. H. KELLY,
Company G, 83d Indiana.

RAREY'S LECTURE.—Those interested in the treatment and education of the horse should not fail to attend Mr. Rarey's lecture this evening, at Lafayette Hall. The reader is no doubt familiar with Rarey's great reputation as a horse tamer, and nothing need be said in commendation of him in that respect. He will undertake this evening to tame a number of vicious horses, and the exhibition will be decidedly interesting. Special accommodations have been provided for the ladies, who have elsewhere in large numbers attended his levees.

THE "DOG LAW."—Mayor Morrison, of Allegheny, has rendered himself a public benefactor, in ridding the city of over two hundred worthless curs, which have been a source of annoyance for years. The law in this city goes into effect on the fifteenth of July, and continues until the fifteenth of September, and during that time Mayor Lowry intends carrying on an active crusade against all dogs not provided with muzzles. We have not heard, as yet, of any cases of hydrophobia in this city, and hope the emergency police will be enabled to prevent the spread of this disease—the most fatal and horrible to which humanity is subject. Persons having valuable dogs should procure muzzles for them forthwith, or they may come to an untimely end.

A DAMPER ON YOUNG AMERICA.—Young America is in despair about the coming Fourth. Fire crackers are seven dollar a box wholesale, and retail for twenty or twenty five cents a pack. The golden dragon brand, the celebrated Chinese crackers, are even more expensive. A dollar a pack is the price of the huge crackers that make a noise like a pistol. A pack of them contains just ten. Double-headed Dutchmen, the cracker used before the war, is now obsolete. Four years ago they were freely purchased for two cents each; now they would be twenty-five. Pinwheels are two cents, and large ones are three times the price of last year. Roman candles are two dollars and a-half a dozen, and all other fire-works in proportion. The price of sky-rockets is as high as the altitude they are supposed to attain. Chasers are not in the market. As a consequence of this increased price, there will be very few crackers used this summer. Merchants who formerly ordered five hundred boxes of crackers, now do not have ten in their stores.

DEPARTED FOR EUROPE.—H. P. Mueller, Esq., of this city, left New York in the Germania, which sailed on Saturday, for Europe. Previous to taking his departure, Mr. Mueller visited Washington City and the camp of the Fifth Heavy Artillery, Col. Gallupe. In a letter written from New York, Mr. Mueller, in speaking of these Pittsburgh troops, says:—"Their fort is nine miles out in Virginia. You go to it by railroad, and it takes you only two hours to make those nine miles. You judge that it is a model railroad. So it is, of course. Many of the men were homesick. The war being over, they felt no interest in the play any longer. These men have gone through hard service, and fought several sharp skirmishes. Colonel Gallupe is exceedingly well liked and esteemed by his men. So it ought to be. In speaking about affairs of the war around Vienna, I would not forget Mr. Elijah Derver, formerly engineer of the Pennsylvania and of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroads during the war, and now of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. His services to the Government in that capacity were connected with uncommon danger. He was repeatedly wounded on the engine by the rebels, and lost two brothers in the war. Such services should be known."

Court Proceedings.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.—Before Hon. Wilson McCandless.

This Court met yesterday morning at ten o'clock, when the oath of allegiance was administered to Hon. Charles A. Black and Robt. W. Downey, Esq., who were admitted to practice.

A number of foreigners were then naturalized by Stephen C. McCandless, Esq., Prothonotary of the Court, among them a Frenchman, who, after serving seven years in the army of France, emigrated to this country, where he enlisted in the army and served for four years.

The Court then adjourned until this morning.

The Fourth of July.

PITTSBURGH, June 26, 1865.

To the Editor of the Commercial:

Can it be possible that far-famed Pittsburgh shall fail to do her duty at the approaching Fourth of July, when all the villages, towns and cities of this great Commonwealth are vieing with each other in making this Fourth—for history—the grandest demonstration of joy and glorious triumph this country has ever witnessed?

The banks of the Allegheny, or the Commons in Allegheny city, certainly furnish ample facilities for any display of fireworks, while Smithfield, Penn or Wood streets are abundantly wide and long for a procession, headed by bands of music, to stamp the occasion as second to none in history—truly a historic day.

Send an agent to New York for fire works. Plenty of time remains. The bloody battle-fields of our country, and the heroic dead, call upon this country to recognize their sacrifices and death struggle in one grand demonstration for liberty and the right. I am a stranger, but an American. Don't leave this demonstration to private enterprise, patriotism, &c., &c. D.

Case of Infanticide—The Dead Body Found.

On Monday night, as some night-soilers were cleaning an out-house connected with the premises of Mr. Jacob Grimm, in Cherry alley, near Seventh street, the dead body of an infant was found in a cesspool. The fact of the discovery of the body was communicated to Coroner Clawson, who, being confined to his bed by sickness, authorized Alderman Donaldson, of the Fourth Ward, to attend to the case. In the meantime Mayor Lowry was apprised of the discovery, when he detailed two of his best officers, Messrs. John Thornberg and Robert Willison, to ferret out the guilty parties. The officers proceeded to the residence of Mr. Grimm and during their investigation were informed that a daughter of the proprietor of the house named Elizabeth, was confined to her bed by sickness. Mr. Thornburg informed Mrs. Grimm that he wished to see her daughter alone, and when the old lady left the room, he informed Elizabeth that he was a physician, and had been sent to ascertain the cause of her illness; that if she told him the truth he would be satisfied; and if not, she would have to submit to a personal examination. The girl at first hesitated, but finally confessed that she had become a mother just a week ago and had thrown the child into the cesspool. The most singular fact connected with the affair was, that the girl had been living all the time at home, and that none of the family, not even her mother, was aware of her actual condition. She stated that when she became ill she repaired to the yard, and after the child was born she threw it into the cess-pool. On being asked whether it had been born alive, she stated that it had cried once or twice, but was dead before she finally disposed of it. She also made a full confession as to the paternity of the child. From her statement it appears that she had become enamored of a young man named Phillip Staffler, and sought an introduction to him through a female friend and confidant, named Maggie Berry, who resided next door to her. Philip's cousin had been paying attentions to Maggie, and it was thought an acquaintanceship between Lizzie and Phillip would be mutually agreeable. They were introduced and their acquaintanceship soon resulted in criminality. In a short time the lovers quarrelled, and Lizzie was left to look out for herself. Phillip had promised to marry her if necessary to save her from disgrace, but she had never made known her condition to him, and had kept her fearful secret in her own breast.

Dr. Rogers was authorized by the Mayor to examine the body of the infant, and found it to be that of a fully developed male child. The lungs, however, had been so distended by gas that he could not determine whether the child had breathed or not. He decided that the girl could be removed, and she was accordingly taken to the Mayor's office.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Philip Staffler, and he was found at work in Hammer & Daller's furniture establishment, where he was employed as a varnisher. He was amazed when he learned of the causes which led to his arrest, but did not pretend to deny the paternity of the child.

Miss Grimm is of very respectable parentage, and her character is good among her neighbors and acquaintances. She is twenty years of age. She seemed to feel very keenly the situation in which she has been placed, and wept long and bitterly. She was committed to jail to answer a charge of murder, as the offense of infanticide is not one which admits of bail. If she had not confessed as to the vitality of her offspring, it would perhaps have been impossible to prove the fact, as there seems to have been no witnesses present. The Mayor also held Staffler to bail to answer a charge of fornication and bastardy.

Yesterday afternoon, Alderman Donaldson empanneled a jury to hold an inquest on the body of the child, but owing to the absence of witnesses the jury adjourned until this morning at nine o'clock.

WESTERN UNIVERSITY.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

The commencement exercises of the Western University were held in Rev. Dr. Brown's church, on Diamond street, opposite the Court House. The attendance was pretty large, though the commencement exercises of the "Pittsburgh Female College" at the same hour, drew many who would have otherwise been present to swell the audience. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. James Prestley.

The salutatory address, in Latin, was delivered by James Wilson Murrary, of Allegheny. This performance was evidently the result of more than ordinary attainments in the language of mighty Rome. There was something in the touch and finish of the workmanship that made one feel, though ignorant of the tongue itself, that there was in it something better than mere hackneyed routine scholarship. It was followed by an oration entitled "Unwritten Music," by John Russel Wightman, of Pittsburgh. This was an eloquent portrayal of the sources of music in nature, delivered with spirit, and a rich amplitude of pertinent and happily conceived illustrations, bringing out vividly the sources of sweet melody in nature everywhere around us. James Wilson Murray followed in an oration on Edward Everett, adhering strictly throughout to the heathen maxim, Nil nisi bonum de mortuis. As perhaps the oration being an eulogium, could not, rhetorically, be otherwise. Though we think a more discriminating estimate of Mr. Everett's characteristics, would have brought the speaker nearer to the truth of history, than his somewhat unmeasured panegyric would. Richard Yerdon, Esq., the "Laudator" would have felt a modest timidity at his own laudatory powers, on hearing the recital of the immeasurable virtues and attainments of his "king of men" by the youthful orator. The oration was distinguished by broad generalizations and literary taste, indicating talent considerably above mediocrity in the speaker. "Tyranny of Opinion," by Wm. Jas. Sawyer, of Allegheny, was the next oration. This was a clear, vigorous and sensible discussion, in terse language of the vicious customs that tyrannize over progress in opinion. Comprehensive information, sound thinking and close reasoning characterized this oration throughout. The valedictory address was likewise delivered by Mr. Sawyer. Coupled with some well considered remarks upon the wants and tendencies of American education as exemplified in this University and city, were the usual adieus expressed in felicitous language. The degree of A. B., in course, was conferred upon the following young gentlemen composing the graduating class: Jas. Wilson Murray, of Allegheny; John R. Wightman, Pittsburgh; William James Sawyer, of Allegheny. The honorary degree of A. M. was conferred on Hans Boggs Herron, of Taily Cavey, Allegheny. The degree of D. D. was conferred on Rev. Robert Audley Brown, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of New Castle, Pa. The degree of LL.D., was conferred upon Hon. Andrew W. Loomis, of Pittsburgh. The "Irving" string band, consisting of John T. Irwin, leader, Edward D. Graff, J. Dock Dean, and Lewis Irwin, members of the University, played very finely several pieces of music at intervals during the evening. The exercises were closed with prayer by Rev. Dr. Howard.

Aquatic Sports—Hamill Going to Boston.

The Boston annual regatta will take place on Charles river, July 4th, and this year excites more interest than usual. The prizes offered are of a liberal character, and are open to all who desire to compete for them. This manly sport is not encouraged in Pittsburgh as was formerly the case, and a regatta or boat race on our waters is an unusual occurrence now. The interest in rowing matches at home should be immediately revived, and a grand regatta gotten up to take place during the present summer. If the Undine Club were to undertake the matter, it would be accomplished.

The champion oarsman, James Hamill, will leave the city this afternoon for Boston, where he designs entering the lists, and will probably have another contest with John Deery. Mr. Hamill will row in a new shell boat, built expressly for him by McKay, of New York. The champion will be accompanied by his brother, John Hamill, and Wm. Jackson, who will pull in the Boston regatta, in the double scull race, in the new boat "Surprise." Both of these men are accomplished oarsmen, and, if not in the front, will stand well up in the list of contestants for the double scull prize.

Public Amusements.

THEATRE.—To-night the accomplished actor and gentleman, Mr. F. Chippendale, the "Old Man" at the theatre, will take his farewell benefit, on which occasion he will appear in three characters. Mr. Chippindale has been a resident of the city for three years, and during that time has made the acquaintance and won the esteem of thousands of our citizens. He is an accomplished classical scholar, a connoisseur in music and painting, and thoroughly devoted to Melpomene. He is soon to take his leave, to unite his fortunes with those of the Park theatre, Brooklyn, N.Y., and he proposes to take his farewell benefit this evening, when, we trust, he will have an overflowing house. He is eminently deserving of a substantial recognition of his talents, and the manner in which to extend it is to fill the house and overflow the treasury.

GRAND GALA FESTIVAL.—The grand gala festival, under the direction of the Martinetti-Ravel Family, will take place this afternoon, at Oakland Park, and it promises to be an unusually entertaining affair. The Martinetti's will perform several of their most extraordinary feats, including the feat on the flying trapez, in which Mons. Paul will leap a distance of ninety feet. Four balloons will be sent up during the afternoon; a laughable sack race, and horizontal pole race will take place, and other amusing and interesting performances will be given. Extra cars will run to the park during the afternoon, and every arrangement has been perfected for the accommodation and comfort of visitors.

J. O. SEFTON, the popular comedian, we observe by the New York Playbill, has been playing a brief engagement, with decided success, at the Winter Garden Theatre, New York. He is to be the stage manager of the Olympic Theatre, Pittsburgh, next season, and is now engaged in securing a first class company.

TUESDAY, June 27—P. M.

—No perceptible improvement is noticed to-day in our local stock market. The sales at the forenoon Board were 125 shares Columbia at $40—a decline, yet considering the depressed condition of oil shares generally, was a very fair price; also, a sale of 250 shares Eldorado, at 58c. Very few names on the list called received any bid.

—A large number of the stockholders of the Cherry Run and Pit Hole Oil Company, held a meeting this afternoon at the Board of Trade Rooms. The object of those present was evidently to get an insight into the condition of the affairs of this company. There was at first a good deal of impatience manifested, and some feeling against the management. This was very happily changed by the plain verbal statement from Captain Stockdale, whose prompt answers to the numerous inquiries about the different property interests of the company, showed that he was familiar with all their details, and that the interests of the stockholders have not suffered for any lack of attention from him. Every person present was pleased, and left the meeting with the impression that their investments in Pit Hole stock will turn up yet all right.

We must again call the attention of oil companies to the importance of making statements at least quarterly. It would go far to prevent a great deal of unjust surmisings and suspicions of uneasy stockholders, who are anxious to know how their interests are faring, and it is very proper that they should be gratified to that extent at least.

—The stocks of companies owning territory in the Pit Hole region are attracting the attention of operators and investors. United States is steady at about $27, since the dividend. Pit Hole Creek (a New York Company also) has been steadily advancing and is quoted to-day at $12 80. This Company has not, so far as we can learn, any oil as yet, but its contiguity to the United States property has caused it to appreciate. "Webster," for the same reason, advanced within the past few days over one dollar per share, being now worth over $3.

Our local companies which are fortunate enough to own territory in that neighborhood are brushing up and reorganizing, with live men at their head, and will now try and make some money by getting oil, instead of as heretofore, by selling stock.

—We cannot understand why the people of the South should require gold in payment for their products when our Western producers are willing to take greenbacks for their grain, and pork and beef, which are just as valuable and necessary as cotton and tobacco. Does not the act of Congress make greenbacks a legal tender at the South as well as the North? The comparison of our currency with the worthless rags of the late Confederacy is a direct insult which every loyal man will feel himself bound to resent. Our currency is the issue of a legitimate Government, while theirs was merely a promise to pay which they had neither the intention nor the ability to keep. From all accounts that we hear from the South, we think the great trouble is that there is a remarkable scarcity of greenbacks.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY COMMERCIAL,
PITTSBURGH, Wednesday, June 28, 1865.

Business in the oil way presented no new feature worthy of particular notice. The demand for crude was fair and sales were to a moderate extent; prices, however, were nominally the same. The sales of both descriptions, for the past two weeks, have been liberal, some parcels were sold for future delivery. Dealers have purchased liberally. The markets in the East have exhibited more business during the past two days, with a larger disposition to operate. The receipts by the river show an increase during the past two days; they reach 3,245 barrels of crude and 200 barrels of refined. The news from Oil City favors buyers; the market continues dull. Refined oil, yesterday, was not very active; buyers are holding off, holders, however, are not attempting to force sales, hence we have a quiet market. Business will, doubtless, be dull until after the holidays are over. The sales that came under our notice were as follows:

CRUDE OIL.—Market steady with sales for export. The current rates were 21½@22c, packages returned, and 26½c packages included. Sales of 2000 bbls, delivered in Philadelphia at 33c; 200 bbls Free, on board cars, at 26½c; 170 bbls, 26½c packages included; 100 do, same terms; 50 bbls, heavy oil at 41@42 gravity, 22c, packages returned; 190 bbls, 21½, packages returned, 730 bbls, in two lots at 26½c packages included; free on board cars, 200 bbls, at 21½c, packages returned; 500 bbls, at 21½c same terms, and 200 do, at 26c, barrels included.

REFINED OILS.—Holders were firm in their views, and the demand was not so brisk. Among the sales were the following: 500 bbls, Bonded, August delivery in Philadelphia, at 55c; 500 bbls, do, same place in September at 56c; Also, sales 1350 bbls, August delivery, at 55c for bonded. Free oil was dull but prices were unchanged.

LUBRICATING OILS.—Sales of Eureka No. A, $1 25 per gallon; No. B, 80c per gallon.

TAR was firm, but prices were unchanged.

BENZOLE was without change either as regards prices or demand.

The Wool Trade—Detroit, Michigan.

The wool market continues unsettled, with indications of an advance in prices.

Coldwater.—The receipts and purchases of new clip in Coldwater up to Wednesday evening have been as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| J. R. Crippen | 11,300 lbs. |
| H. J. Scholey | 24,900 " |
| Crippen & Robison | 19,100 " |
| Mr. Grinnell, about | 2,000 " |
| Total | 90,300 lbs. |

Casting for all of it 51@52½c. Prices are steady at 45@55c.

Jackson.—Three clips of wool were sold in Jackson yesterday, weighing 1,500 lbs. at 55c. About 200 lbs. at 53@56c.

Grass Lake.—Lord & Fargo have taken 3,200 lbs. at 53@75c; average 55c.

Chelsea—About 2,000 pounds taken this week at 52@53c.

Dexter—R. A. Beals took about 3,000 pounds yesterday, all at 53c. Nearly all of the wool sold is grown by those that have not conveniences for storing, or are obliged to sell. Most of the wool growers will not sell their wool at existing prices.—Free Press.

Grand Haven—Wool growers are not realizing their expectations in prices offered for wool. Hon. George Luther, of Lamont, is buying, offering from 45@50c. Farmers generally are not in haste to sell.—News, 21.

Mount Clemens—Small lots of the new clip are being brought to our market, E. C. Gallun being the principal buyer. The price paid is 50c.—Press.

Battle Creek—Wool has been coming in slowly the past week. The street rates are about 50c, while there are transactions over that figure, depending upon the quality and competition on the street.—Journal.

The Toledo Blade, of the 23d, says:

Wool—The receipts of this article have increased largely within a few days past, and the trade is becoming quite active. The receipts by the Cleveland and Toledo Railroad, yesterday, consigned to one of our firms, exceeded in value $4,000. The receipts by teams are also quite liberal.

The Ohio Farmer, of the 24th, says:

The wool growers and the wool buyers, in Ohio, are yet so far apart in their ideas of prices, that no opening of the trade for the new clip has been effected. We hear of a few small clips of medium wool that have changed hands, at prices in the neighborhood of 60c; but this rate will not move the better clips. Local buyers are very cautious, and eastern buyers are not yet in the field.

The Akron Beacon, of the 23d, said:

Considerable wool is being brought in, and rates are ruling at from 60 to 70c, according to quality. Many growers, however, seem inclined to hold their clips for higher rates, though, whether they are wise or not, by so doing, is regarded by some as rather questionable.

Philadelphia Hay and Straw Market.

During the past week 461 loads of hay and straw were weighed and sold at the Farmers' Hay and Straw Market, North Seventh street. The market was well supplied, and the prices closed firmer, with a slight advance. Best quality timothy hay sold at $1 10@1 15 ₱ cwt; mixed and inferior at 90c@$1 00. Straw still continues at about the same price, selling at $1 25 ₱ cwt.

PITTSBURGH GENERAL MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY COMMERCIAL,
PITTSBURGH, Wednesday, June 28, 1865.

Business continues to move along slowly. The demand for the leading articles being very light, prices have undergone no change for some days. The weather has been changeable. Our rivers are down to about four feet six inches in the channel, and boats make their trips with considerable difficulty. The only arrival since our last has been the Minerva. She has just been released from Government employ. She will resume her place in the Parkersburg trade, and is announced to leave this day. She is in charge of Capt. George W. Johnson. The Emma Graham cleared for Zanesville, with all the freight she could carry, and a good number of passengers. The Iron City left for Cincinnati during the afternoon with a good trip. The fine steamer Centralia did not get off yesterday; she will take her departure to-day without fail. The first-class packet Hard Times leaves this day for Cairo and St. Louis; to persons going that way, a word to the wise is sufficient. The Alex. Speer is on the ways undergoing repairs; she will load for Cincinnati. Freights for the various ports were moderately plenty at fair prices. Below will be found the sales that came under our notice:

POTATOES—The supply in the market continues very limited. Holders were firm, and prices were tending upward. Among the sales were 150 bush peach blows at $1 10; 40 bush Ohio at $1. Reds were scarce, and would command 70@75c readily. The season for old crop is over.

CHEESE.—The demand was steady and sales were regular. The receipts keep pace with the demand. Sales 40 bxs W. R. at 16@17c; 25 do. Hamburg 18@18c; 15 do. Goshen 20c.

LINSEED OIL—Was in steady demand; sales of 25 bbls, at $1 05 ₱ gallon.

GRAIN—We have nothing new to note in regard to this article. The market has been dull and inactive for some weeks. Prices have been irregular. Wheat dull with more sellers than buyers. Several parcels have been disposed of, the terms of which were not made public. Sales 160 bu. Red, from wagon, at $1 35; 75 bu. White at $1 50. Corn—There was more inquiry. Sales 450 sks. shelled from store at 75c; 200 sks. do. at 79c; 125 bu. ear 75c. Oats—The market contains an ample supply. Sales 275 bu. from depot at 59c; 500 do. 58@58c. Sales from store at 62½c.

MALT—The market was quiet, the demand being very light. We quote winter at $1 75, and spring $1 50 ₱ bushel of 34 lbs.

LEAD—The market was not very active. We note the following as the asking prices: Galena pig, 9c; sheet, 16; pipe do, 18c.

SALT—The market was not very active. The supply was fully up with the demand. Sales of 100 bbls in lots at $2 60 ₱ bbl.

EGGS—The market continues very firm with a good local demand. We note of lots comprising 33 bbls at 27c.

FEED—We note a sale of 2 car loads of damaged corn meal, for feed, at 45c ₱ cwt. Sales of 5 tons bran at 85c.

RYE—Dull; sales of 50 bushels prime at 70c.

BARLEY—Not very active; sales of 395 bushels spring at 90c.

HAY—Not very active. The receipts were not large at the scales; 13 loads were disposed of at $15@19 per ton. Baled was inactive.

FLOUR—The market was not very active, the sales being confined to small parcels to meet the wants of the home market. So far as relates to prices we have no change to notice. Figures that were current ten days ago would answer on the present occasion. Among the sales were the following: Extra family, 75 barrels, spring wheat, at $7 50; winter do. $8; 100 barrels do. $7 80@; 40 barrels do. $7@7 50; 50 barrels do. $7 75, and 100 barrels at $7 50. Country parcels were irregular and sold at a variety of prices.

WHISKY—The market has undergone no change. Sales 15 bbls city-rectified at $2 12.

SEEDS—The only demand was for flaxseed. We note sales to the amount of 300 bush at $2 00—an advance. Other descriptions were neglected.

BACON—Was in fair demand for home use. Shoulders—Sales 2,000 lbs at 15@15½c. Sides—Sales ribbed at 16@16½c. Plain Hams 20@20½c; sugar-cured 25@25½c.

LARD—The market was dull at 19@19½c.

TALLOW—Market unchanged; sales 5 bbls at 9c.

DRIED FRUIT—Was dull, with more sellers than buyers. Apples were nominal at 6½@7c. Peaches, 25@27c.

Philadelphia Cattle Market.

June 27.—The receipts of Beef Cattle are large this week, reaching about 1,800 head. The market, in consequence, is very dull, and prices have declined 1 to 2c ₱ lb., with sales of extra at 15 and 17c; fair to good at 14 and 15c; and common at from 12 to 13c ₱ lb. as to quality. The following are the particulars of the sales:

28 head, Mooney & Smith, Western, 13@16½.
40 " J. & J. Chain, Penna., 12@15.
40 " H. Chain, Penna., 12@16.
18 " Ullman & Co., Western, 12@15.
34 " A. Kennedy, Chester county, 12@16.
164 " Martin, Fuller & Co., Western, 15@17.

115 " Joseph McFillen, Western, 14@15½.

102 " J. S. Kirk, Lancaster county, 12@15½.
13 " Jones McClese, Chester county, 12@14.
56 " P. McFillen, Western, 14@16.
67 " Christy & Bro., Western, 15@16½.
45 " O. Smith, Western, 14@17.
60 " Gust Shomberg, Western, 14@16½.

Hogs are in better demand, and prices have advanced. 1,500 head arrived and sold at the different yards at from $12@13 50 the 100 lbs net.

Cows are rather dull. 160 head sold at from $25@50 for springers, and $30 up to $80 ₱ head for cow and calf, as to quality.

Sheep are less active. 6,500 head arrived and sold at from 6@7c ₱ lb gross, as to quality. Lambs are selling at $4@6 ₱ head.

Cotton Supply.

There is a wide range in the estimates of the quantity of cotton in the South. Some estimates are as high as 3,000,000 bales. Parties whose facilities for obtaining correct information seem to be the best, place the quantity at 1,500,000 bales more or less.

Much of the cotton is injured, and a considerable portion, from long contact with the oily seed, more or less damaged.

Previous to the surrender of the rebel forces, good cotton was bought at the South at 10@13c, when convenient for transportation, and as low as 1@5c per pound at distant points.

The charge for inland conveyance, owing to the difficulties and want of transportation to a port of shipment, averaged 10c per pound.

The value of the cotton in the South, estimated at 30c per pound, would be over $220,000,000. Its importance, in connection with the finances of the country, can hardly be over-estimated. Upon this subject the Journal of Commerce says:

"If allowed to come forward, subject to no onerous restrictions, as the product of districts lately engaged in insurrection, it would furnish so desirable a basis for increased activity in the foreign trade that the National Treasury itself would save in the purchasing of supplies more than it could gain by the imposition of the heaviest tax on the sales. This view of the case is worthy of serious consideration, especially at a time when large shipments of gold are attracting public attention, and the produce which should take its place, to some extent, is kept back by some of these various impediments."

Louisville Tobacco Market.

Buyers were rather backward to-day, and prices on common qualities were rather low, with sales at the auction warehouses of 284 hhds, including reviews, and 25 hhds rejected. Prices were as follows:

Pickett—2 hhds damaged at 3 20 to 3 50, 1 hhds at 4 10 to 4 80, 25 hhds at 5 to 5 90, 16 hhds at 6 to 9 40, 26 hhds at 10 30 to 18 00, 3 hhds at 20 to 22, and 2 at 24 to 26.

Ninth Street—8 hhds at 4 05 to 4 90, 17 hhds at 5 to 5 75, 18 hhds at 6 to 9 25, 16 hhds at 10 to 16, 3 hhds at 18 to 19 25, and 1 at 20 to 22.

Boone—4 hhds at 4 to 4 90, 5 hhds at 4 to 4 80, 16 hhds at 5 to 5 90, 17 hhds at 6 to 9, 9 hhds at 10 to 14, 5 hhds at 16 to 19, and 2 hhds at 21 to 22.

Cincinnati Tobacco Market.

High-priced Tobacco at St. Louis.

Mr. R. M. Johnson auctioned off, at his warehouses, yesterday, a hogshead of fine tobacco, which brought $60 75 ₱ 100 lbs.—the highest price of the season. T. M. Barron & Co. were the sellers, and P. M. May was the buyer. The quality of the tobacco was excellent, but Dick's persuasive eloquence doubtless had due influence over the bidders or they would not have gone so high in this hot weather.—Democrat.

The French Tobacco.

Large quantities of tobacco, owned by the French Government, but which has been stored at Moore's Warehouse in this city, since the beginning of the war, passed through Bank street yesterday en route for the wharf. From there it will go to City Point, and from thence to its final destination.—Petersburg Express 23d.

Cincinnati Provision Market.

June 26.

The market for provisions opened firm, but closed quiet, and prices were in favor of buyers, though, with the exception of mess pork, no material change took place. City packed mess was held at $24 early in the day, but purchases could have been made on change at $23. At this figure there was a moderate inquiry only. Bulk Meats were quiet, though holders are firm and unwilling to make any important concessions. Shoulders are held at 12½c, rib sides 15½c, and Hams 17c, loose, and a few sales were made at these rates. We did not hear of any transactions in Bacon. Shoulders are held at 14@14½c, and rib Sides, 18½c. Plain Hams cannot be bought at less than 20c, canvassed and packed, and some ask 21c. Sugar cured hams are firm at 24@25c. Lard met with a moderate inquiry at 17½c for prime city.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

New York Finance and Trade.

Special to Western Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 27.

STOCKS.

There was increased demand for railway shares on the street this morning, and prices are all better at the stock exchange. The market was firm during call. There were large transactions in the leading stocks and speculative impulse opened for Cumberland Coal and ran thro all the railroads, with light exceptions. There is a very strong movement in Cleveland and Cleveland and Pittsburgh, conducted yesterday by stockholders. Sales at the Board this morning of 720 shares. Northern Central was also very active making an advance of 1½. The rise in Illinois Central was equal to 4@5 per cent., consequent upon European advices. In the latter part of the day the market became quiet. Government list steady, with not much animation, the rise in 5 20s on the other side generally being anticipated, had very little effect. The Gold market was not active to-day.

GOLD

Very effectually locked up by a bull combination, and has been sold ½ ₱ cent. premium. Money easy.

PETROLEUM STOCKS

More active and firmer. The case of the United States excites very little remark on the street; the concern never had any position among the trade. Excelsior, $3 25; Webster, $2 80; Highgate, 73c; Fulton, $5 85; Guild Farm, 75c; Napoleon, $2 30; Pit Hole Creek, $13; Starr, $2 00; Terraganta, $2 75; Buchanan Farm, 75c; McIlheny, $2 25; Tack, $1 00; Rynd Farm, $2 10; Heydrick, $2 20; Cherry Run, 38c; Oceanic, $8 00; Germania, 50c; Oil Creek, $7 00; United States, $26 00.

PETROLEUM

moderately active, advance in prices; sales of crude at 33½@33c refined, in bond, at 54@55c, and free at 73@75c.

Crop accounts from all parts of the country, particularly from the west, are of a most favorable character, and we shall probably have enormous supplies of almost everything produced in the Northern States.

New York Gold Market.

NEW YORK, June 27.

Gold continues unsettled in consequence of the scarcity of cash. Gold bears are borrowing freely to make their deliveries, paying ¾ per cent. per day. They do this in preference to buying, in the hope that after Saturday the payment of gold interest by the Treasury will compel bulls to disgorge the $5,000,000 they are now keeping out of the market. The quotations opened at 141¼, and went up to 142.

New York Money and Stock Market.

NEW YORK, June 27.

The Money market is quiet and easy at 4@5 per cent. Sterling Exchange dull. Gold quiet and without decided change opening at 141¾, advancing to 142⅜ and closing at 141⅜. Receipts are heavy, being over 120 head more than last week, yet the demand was brisk, nearly all the cattle being sold. There were but few prime and extra bullocks in the yards, and they sold well at a slight advance. Sheep and lambs are coming in very freely for this season, and sell at a decline of ½c ₱ lb. Prices firm. Live hogs are in brisk demand at a slight advance.

THE RIVER.—Last evening at twilight there were about four feet six inches water in the channel and falling. Weather pleasant.

THE fleet packet Bayard will hereafter run as a tri-weekly packet between Wheeling and Parkersburg.

SALE OF GOVERNMENT VESSELS.—We direct the attention of our steamboatmen to the advertisement in another column, offering for sale a number of Government vessels. Some of these boats are in prime condition, and are well worth the attention of our steamboatmen who may desire to extend their investments in steamboat stock.

THE fine steamer Centralia, Capt. W. Reno, is announced for Cincinnati and Louisville. Since her last trip this boat has undergone various alterations and improvements that cannot fail to add to the comfort and conveyance of passengers. The main cabin has been extended, a large texas has been added, in fact she is equal to a new boat. Capt. Reno will see that passengers are well cared for.

The splendid passenger steamer Hard Times is announced for Cairo and St. Louis. This boat is very light draught, and has been fitted up in a very superior manner. Passengers who have traveled on her, speak in flattering terms of her appointments. Captain Brown is an officer of large experience, and understands his duty in all its various departments. The first clerk is our old friend Mr. A. J. Haslett, an officer who will see that passengers have the best of attention.

Cincinnati.

Tuesday's Commercial says: The river has receded 12 inches during the past twenty-four hours. There is 9 feet hence to Louisville. There is 6½ feet in the Canal. The Tennessee is falling again. The Cumberland is falling with 3 feet on Harpeth Shoals. There is 12 feet in the Mississippi from St. Louis to Cairo.

The Ida Rees came in from Pittsburgh with a fair trip of people and freight.

BOATS DUE.—The Golden Era and Sherman, from Marietta; Volunteer and Yorktown, from Nashville; Maggie Hays, from St. Louis.

Captain Geo. D. Hoople, Superintendent of the Memphis and Cincinnati Packet Company, received a dispatch from Captain W. B. Miller, announcing that the Robert Burns, bound from Cincinnati for Memphis, with a valuable cargo, caught fire in the hold while lying at Metropolis. The flames spreading rapidly, it became necessary to scuttle her in order to save the boat and a portion of the cargo. She lies sunk at Metropolis, with the water up to her lower deck. All the deck freight was recovered, while the freight in the hold was, of course, damaged. Captain Hoople, and a delegation from the Insurance Companies, left for the wreck last night. She will, doubtless, be speedily raised. The cargo will be brought here for adjustment and final disposal. The cargo in her hold was valuable, and the loss is considerable. It was insured principally in Cincinnati offices.

The authorities at Vicksburg, on the 18th, made the Emperor, bound from New Orleans for Cincinnati, unload at Vicksburg, when she was ordered up Red River in the Government service.

Captain French is prospecting, not having decided as yet which way to head the Alice, a new and elegant low water packet.

A number of tow boats arrived, while others passed down from Pittsburgh for Louisville and below, with coal tows.

The Silver Cloud reshipped 120 and the Ida Rees 64 tons for Louisville. Both boats will undergo thorough repairs here.

Louisville.

Monday's Press says:

The river, at the time we left the wharf, was slowly falling, with 6 feet 2 inches water in the canal by the mark, 4 feet 2 inches in the pass on the falls, and 3 feet 2 inches over the rocks. The river at the head of the falls, during the previous 24 hours, had swollen 5 inches, which is equal to a rise of 1½ inches at Portland. The weather during the morning was clear and pleasant, but at noon it clouded up, and during the afternoon we were visited with some peals of thunder and flashes of lightning.

Nashville.

Saturday—Business at the levee dull. No arrivals yesterday.

DEPARTED—Sam Orr and Lem Leoti for Evansville.

River falling, with three feet water on Harpeth shoals.—Dispatch.

Memphis.

Friday.—The river rose about two inches yesterday. There were very few boats at the wharf, but business on it was brisk.

The arrivals were steamers Alpha, from Johnsonburg; Science No. 2, from Johnsonburg; Henry Ames, from New Orleans; Rowena, from White river; City of Cairo, from St. Louis; Mississippi, from New Orleans.

The Science No. 2 and Alpha belonged to the fleet and had troops on board.

The departures yesterday—Marble City for St. Louis; Henry Ames, for St. Louis; Science No. 2, for New Orleans; Alpha, for New Orleans.

IN PORT—Steamers City of Cairo, Justice, Zephyr, Lady, Fountain City, Superior, Darling and Rowena.

MEMORANDA.—The Henry Ames brought up 130 bales of cotton, 140 rebel prisoners, and 700 sick Union soldiers.

The steamer Rowena brought some cotton from White River.

The White River is rising slowly.

There is said to be still a considerable amount of cotton along White River.

The Mississippi brought up 500 bales of cotton, 300 hhds of sugar and 600 rebel prisoners.

The United States Medical Director shipped two thousand mattresses on the Marble City.—Bulletin.
